IKISSINGER EXPECTS SMITH TO APPROVE PLAN ON BLACK RULE

But Skepticism Persists on Quick Rhodesia Breakthrough Despite Report by the Secretary

> By BERNARD GWERTZMAN Special to The New York Times

PRETORIA, South Africa, Sept. 19-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said tonight that after extensive telks with Prime Minister Ian D. Smith of Rhodesia he was satisfied that the leader of the white-ruled regime would recommend to his aides that Rhodesia accept a plan for transition to black majority rule.

But there were no details provided, and was uncertain whether a breakthrough was imminent on Rhodesia or not. In adcition, because io the past Mr. Smith has entered negotiations and then pulled out, there was coosiderable skepticism here about the prospects for a quick movement toward a new accord.

Speaking outside the bome of Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa, Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

11r. Kissinger looked weary and grim, but like clearly, wanted to leave the impression he clearly wanted to leave the impression that, on the eve of his departure for another round of shuttling in black Africa, progress has been made on the Rhode. sian problem. Goerrilla warfare has stepped up in recent months against the Smith regime.

Smith Leaves for Salisbury

He said that Mr. Smith, who had been eagerly seeking a meeting with Mr. Kisinger, bad heard and discussed the Brit ish-American plan, which is backed by black African states, and had left tonight for Salisbury to report to top leaders in the Rhodesian capital.

"I am satisfied that Mr. Smith's close collaborators will report favorably to their other colleagues," he said.

Mr. Kissioger was asked if this meant a breakthrough had been achieved on Rhodesia—something that bad not been anticipated when he left Washington seven days ago. He declined to call it that, asserting that ohviously if progress bad not been made there would be nothing to report to the Rhodesiao Cabinet. ## 146 Feared Dead on Turkish Jet ISPARTA, Turkey, Monday, Sept. 20 (UPI)—A Turkish Airlines Boeing 727 crashed into a mountain in southwestern Turkey and exploded in flames last night, apparently killing all 146 persons aboard, officials said early today.

Cevat Altinay, the prosecutor in Isparta, about 30 miles north of the crash site, said that the first rescue teams to arrive found charred bodies scattered throughout the area.

"I do not think there are any survivors," Mr. Altinay said.

Airline officials in Istanbul said that the passenger list was being withheld pending notification of relatives. They would not say if there were any for-eigners on the flight.

On Domestic Flight

The jetliner, carrying 139 passengers and a crew of seven, was on a domestic flight from Istanbul to the Mediterramean resort of Antalya, on Turkey's south-

Vorster, 'Honest and Blunt,' Said to Win Kissinger's Respect

PRETORIA, South Africa, Sept. 19-Henry Kissinger and John Vorster, men of sharply differing backgrounds and beliefs who have been brought together by o common interest in defusing the explosive political situation in southern Africa, appear to have found a grudging respect for each other in their 30 hours of talks over three months.

hours of talks over three months.

There has been none of the public jocularity and bonhomie that characterized the relationship between Mr. Kissinger and other contrasting political figures he has met, such as Prime Minister Chou En-lai of China or President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt. But behind closed doors, Mr. Kissinger is reported to have established a surprising rapport with Mr. Vorster.

"He's blunt, he's honest and he's forthright, and Henry respects him for that," a Kissinger aide said today after the Secretary of State's latest round of talks with the South African Prima Minister. "I think Fienry's found that he's also a lot more realistic than anybody gives him credit for."

Whether Mr. Kissinger, was able to establish a similar relationship with Prime Minister lan D. Smith of Rhodesia was less certain Participants at the eight hours of talks between the two men described the sessions as business-like, and Mr. Kissinger carefully avoided having his photograph taken with

No Titla for Smith

He also avoided referring to Mr. Smith as Prime Minister, a tack acknowledgment of the fact that the United States has regarded the Rhodesian Government as illegal since it hroke away from Britain in 1965. In Mr. Kissinger's statement on the meeting, the Rhodesian was plain "Mr. Smith" and the Cabinet ministers he brought with him "close collaborators."

For his part, Mr. Vorster, has made

For his part, Mr. Vorster has made oo secret of the pleasure he takes at dealing with Mr. Kissinger. A'few days ago he told a political rally that the talks had ended the period in which the West "ignored us totally," and ushered in an era in which Mr. Kissinger felt it necessary to report persocally to the leaders of Western Europe on the discussions.

The three principals in the day's talks were an odd assembly. Mr. Kissinger, the German emigre who fled the Nazis. Mr. Vorster, the wartine internee who was accused of aftempting to sabotage South Africa's war effort, and Mr. Smith, the Spitfire pilot who underwent plastic surgery to his face after bailing out over German occupied Italy.

Awkward in Public

But perhaps the most remarkable aspect of the encounter was the relationship between Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Vorster. In public it appeared distant and awkward, but in private the two men were said to have relaxed in each other's company, sharing humorous anecdotes about their political experiences without, however, slipping into familiarity.

He added that he had not returned to take part in politics. To accent his point, he went immediately to a Buddhist tem-ple, had his head shaved and donned the saffron robes of a monk.

Students Behind His Overthrow

Marshal Thanom's return, as the return last month of his one-time deputy, Field Marshal Praphas Charusathien, posed a serious political problem for the Govern-ment of Prime Minister Seni Pramoj. The Prime Minister, who heads the third elected Thai Government in less than two years, must now determine how to con-vince Field Marshal Thanom to leave or how to appease the left-wing students who have taken to the streets in some-times violent demonstrations each time a Thanom-era figure has returned.

Students were largely responsible for the overthrow and exile of Marshals Thanom and Praphas in a revolution in

Only one men's store is big enough to treat you at ividual. Even if you're not a man.

This fall, one of the most exciting innovations at Barney's is something you'd never expect to find in a men's store

It took 53 years, but we've finally given women the floor. And graced it with hand-picked fashions from some of the most dynamic designers in the world, such as Christian Aujard and Daniel Hechter.

But a whole new sex at Barney's is only the beginning.

Because this fall, the world's largest men's store encompasses even more points of view than ever before. Which means it's even easier for you to express your own.

In Barney's International House, you'll find the complete collections of designers in the highest strata of international fashion. This fall we're introducing names like-Basile, Lanvir, and Giorgio Armani.

You'll also find an entire floor, the length of a city block, with jaunty displays of the most innovative European sportswear for men. And, on the same floor, a place to get a bit of wine and cheese, or a great meal. In Barney's delightful new cafe.

When you get to the fourth floor of Barney's America House, you may think you've entered another era. For here is a brand new men's shop called the Oak Room, created to be reminiscent of a more unhurried tink. Where a rich, oak-panelled ambience sets off the most elegant clothing you've ever seen. (Including the renowned Oxxford collection due in October.)

If you're a traditionalist, on the other hand, you'll be pleased to learn there have been no drastic changes in Barney's Madison Room. Where all the great American makers remain stalwartly devoted to the classic, natural-shoulder approach. Barney's Madison Room has the largest selection of these fashions in the world.

Of course, there's one thing at Barney's we'll never change. Our attention to personal service. From the hostess who greets you at the door to the final, individual fitting by custom tailors that completes your stay.

We invite you to Barney's this fall. It's a great new men's store at a great old address.

The Rev. Sun Myung Moon as he addressed a "God Bless America" rally yesterday at the Washington Monument

Sun Myung Moon Ends Ministry in the U.S. With Anti-Communist Speech in Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—The Rev. Sim Mying Moon ended his four-year ministry to the United States at a mass rally here yesterday, leaving behind a highly publi-cized but much criticized movement that must face, among other things, the ques tions of Congressional investigators.

About 50,000 persons—about half as many as organizers had predicted would turn out—showed up at the Washington Monument for a "God Bless America" rally organized by Mr. Moon's Unification Church. Most seemed to be there for the music and the fireworks display—billed by the 56-year-old evangelist's followers as "the world's greatest international fire-

"Ford is very well-positioned for these dibates," commented Barry Jagoda, Mr. Carter's televisioo adviser, in en sssessment that coincided perfectly with the hopeful calculations of the Republican President's own campaign aides. "I think he will do very-well," the Carter man said, "and if he does, he can only exceed people's expecations."

The decision on the Ford side to make the debates the focal point of the President's campign strategy was based oo more than a conclusion that, given his low standing in the poils, he had little to lose from the gamble. Polls taken for Mr. Ford hy Robert Teeter of Detroit plainly indicated that the President was widely deemed to be neither forceful nor very intelligent.

Seen as Ford Opportunity
The debates were therefore seen as an opportunity to erase this organive image at a stroke before a national audience. Ford strategists argue that the President will gain from the encounter even if his opponent does well, "It is almost inconceivable, looking at the polling data and knowing about the real man, that the President can be harmed," said Michael Raoul-Duval, a White House aide who is coordinating Mr. Ford's preparations. On the Ford side, there is considerable respect for Mr. Carter and his abilities as a television performer. "He's an incredible opponent," said Bill Carruthers, a Los Angeles televisium producer who advised former Presideot Nixon in all his television appearances and recently was recalled to the White House to perform the same function for Mr. Ford.

As the Ford strategists see it, Mr. Carter has managed to make a fine art of ambiguity io the campaign so far, encouraging conservatives to see him as a conservative to see him as ing conservatives to see him as a conservative and liberals to see him as a liberal. In the debates, they reason, he will strive to leave an impression of speaking specifically and decisively on issues. In the process, they argue, Mr. Carter will risk shaking loose elements of his support. "Every time we can make him get specific." Mr. Teeter argued, "he will have to push somebody off on one side of the boat or the other."

have a number of ways to help you make the most of them. There's our 7.75% a year Term Savings Account, which yields 8.17%, maturities available for 6 or 7 years. Minimum deposit $1,000. Or our 7.50% a year Term Savings Account, which yields 7.90%, maturities available from 4 to 6 years. Minimum deposit $1,000. Or our 6.75% a year Term Savings Account yielding 7.08%, maturities available from 2½ to 4 years. Minimum

Or our 6:50% a year Term Savings Account yielding 6.81%, maturities vailable from 1 to 21/2 years. Minimum

FDIC regulations require that withdrawais from Term Savings Accounts may be made only with the consent of the Bank and are subject to a substantial penalty. The rate of interest on the amount withdrawn must be reduced to the Regular Savings Account rate at the time, and three months' interest forfeited.

We also have a few attractive accounts for those who don't want to tie up a minimum deposit for a specified period of time. Our 5.25% Regular Savings Account yields 5.47%, (money deposited by the 10th of the month earns interest from the 1st of the month in which it is deposited). Or our 5.25% Day-of-Deposit/Day-of-Withdrawal Account or Statement Savings Account yields 5.47%. Latest declared dividends on these accounts.

And because interest is compounded daily on all savings accounts at Dollar, even your interest earns interest.

Annual yields on all accounts are effective when principal and interest are left on deposit for a full year. So choose the account that suits you

Bridge:

Publication Offers Chance For Prizes in 3 Categories

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

A publication that is unusual in the annals of bridge made its appearance this month. It is entitled Contest Bridge, and seems to be a compromise between.

a bridge megazine and a state lottery. For an entry fee of a dollar or two, subscribers can compete in three com-petitions, one on bidding, one on leading, and one miscellany that includes questions on bidding, leading, general knowledge of the game, and inspired guesswork. The guesswork applies mainly in tie-breaking questions that require the reader to judge how many calls were required to reach a given contract on a given deal.

The attraction is the size of the prizes, which total $30,000 in September and will be increased to $40,000 in October. The sponsor of this unusual enterprise, preparing to invest a sub-stantial sum in the project, is Brad Cochrane of Daytona Beach, Fla., a relative newcomer to the game who bas recruited a staff of young experts. Subscriptions are $10 monthly, and the Daytona Beach, Fla. 32015.

No Absolute Answers

The contests do not as yet extend to matters of play, in which the an-swers are often absolute rather than relative. If they did, the diagramed deal from the September issue would be appropriate. It was included for tiebreaking purposes, and the reader was asked to guess how many calls were made by experts when the deal was played. They might also have been asked whether South could and should succeed in a contract of five diamonds reached as shown.

North-South have perhaps bid too a contract that can be made as the cards lie. The alternative contract of four hearts would need an even trump mond queen.

After a spade lead. East wins two tricks and shifts to the heart queen. South wins and can see one faint chance. He must locate the diamond queen, and bring off a squeeze in clubs and hearts. For this to succeed, he must find one defender, obviously West, with at least four hearts and at least five

Using that hypothesis, South will make the right decision in diamonds. West has shown at least three spades, by playing the three followed by the eight, he must be assumed to have a squeeze idea is doomed.

Sonth Wins Heart Shift

So South wins the heart shift, leads to the diamond king, and finesses against East's hypothetical queen. When this succeeds, the declarer draws the last trump, cashes his remaining high beart, and plays two more trumps

Narrative Roller-Coaster

But one needn't have worried, as it But one needn't have worried, as it turns out, the excitement has barely begun. Amazingly, only a few dozen pages later, the judge declares the proceedings a mistrial. Then, even more astonishing, another key character suddenly dies; this time it is unquestionably murder. We are off on another coartative roller-coaster, with even steeper dips and climbs through Texas society, even sharper hairpin turns around questions of probability and motive. There finally is an extended courtroom trial, and it's a stemwinder. At the end, when one looks back, the At the end, when one looks back, the first third of "Blood and Money" seems comparatively placid.

I will not claim that Mr. Thompson—whose previous books include "Hearts: Of Surgeons and Transplants" (another of Surgeons and Transplants" (another thriller involving Houston physicians)—has written a profound book, or even a shallow ooe devoid of flaws. He fails to be aware, as a Balzac or a Thackeray would have been, of the mirrorimages that the top and bottom of Texas society reflect at each other—the resemblances of his high-lifera marrying for money to his low-lifers pimping for whores; or the ironic simpimping for whores; or the ironic similarity between his description of Joan Hill making a dramatic entrance at the climax of a horse show and a prostitute named Marcia McKittrick performing at a Las Vegas nightclob. Mr. Thompsoo doesn't seem to have a point in mind, other than to milk maximum thrills from his drama, to which and he are shifts his point of view. end he even shifts his point of view and manipulates his story's perspec-tive. (For instance, be treats John Hill as a villain at first, then transforms him into a martyr.)

Still, 'Blood and Mooey" remains a thoroughly absorbing epic of revenge. It has, as they say, everything—from gossip to grisliness, from savagery to suspense. There may even be a lesson in it somewhere; but as long as the plot keeps twisting . . . who cares?

Elephantine Tax Reform

Congress, after laboring for three years over the tax reform bill, has finally passed it and sent the mammoth. document of over a thousand pages to the President for his signature. The bill has its virtues and faults, but on balanca it is acceptable legislation that the President should sign.

The bill is extremely complicated; indeed, it has increased the already incredible complexity of this nation's tax laws and pushed them further beyond the comprehension of even the cognoscenti among economists, lawyers and accountants. One of the most important tasks for the next President and Congress will be to simplify the tax system and increase its equity, so that people earning the same amount of income would pay about the same amount of taxes.

Even after the multitude of revisions and reforms contained in the new tax bill, some taxpayers will pay a far higher proportion of their earnings to the Federal Government than others with higher incomes who are able to take advantage of various tax shelters, loopholes and deductions. This is not only unfair to individual taxpayers hut distorts and worsens the use of resources by directing investment into channels that have the biggest tax advantages, whether or not such investments best serve to promote productive efficiency and national economic growth.

However, the new tax bill does have some achievements in the direction of greater equity. By increasing the minimum tax on individual investors and corporations taking advantage of a variety of tax shelters and large deductions, the bill would raise more than $1 billion in revenues; it would increase the number of people caught by the minimum tax from 30,000 to 300,000.

Apart from the impsct of the minimum tax, the bill tightens up some tax shelters, while leaving others about as wide as they were before. The harsh-to-light changes in the taxation of real estate syndicates, oil and gas drilling, sports franchises, motion picture deals, farm losses taken by non-farmers and other tax-shelter investments reflects a set of complex political pressures and compromises that make no particular economic sense. In fact, those revisions simply demonstrate that the effort to patch up a basically bad system by making incremental changes in a host of undesirable provisions, rather than by repealing them outright, only leads to greater complexity and to minimal and uncertain improvements in equity.

There are several examples of such clumsy changes in this bill including a partial reform of the tax advantages reaped by Domestic International Sales Corporations and the half closing of the loophole that has permitted capital gains to escape taxation on tha death of the owner of corporate securities.

The tax bill is at its best in its overall fiscal impact. It continues in effect the 1975 tax cuts for individuals. and corporations. For example, it keeps in effect the 10 percent investment tax credit for husinesses through 1980, and retains the tax reduction on the first $50,000 of corporate profits, to help small companies. These and similar provisions will support further growth of an economy that is sdvancing too sluggishly and suffering from excess unemployment.

One of the major achievements of the tax hill is that it stayed close to the guidelines set by the new Congressional budget committee; it will raise an extra $1.6 billion through tax reform in the coming fiscal year, and this will rise to an estimated $2.4 billion by fiscal 1981. The new budget process did much to prevent the sort of costly tax give-aways that have marked other major efforts at tax reform in earlier years.

Congress, having imposed that fiscal discipline upon itself with constructive results, should now recognize that a comparable discipline is needed if the tax laws are ever to be made simpler rather than more and more complicated. That discipline will require recognizing that the tax system cannot be used to try to solve every problem that some Congressman or taxpayer can think of through special tax treatment, whether in the form of special benefits or special penalties. An example of the latter is the new hill's withholding of tax advantages from companies that acceded to the Arab boycott, a dublous way of tackling a serious moral, legal, political and economic problem.

Despite that and the other many flaws in the existing tax but, we believe that it does marginally improve the equity of the United States tax system and will benefit tne national economy. To put the case negatively, To would be a heavy blow and major setback to the recovery if the President were to veto this hill.

Life on Mars?...

The scientists trying to analyze the results of the experiments on Mars being conducted by the landers from Vikings 1 and 2 are understandably cautious-in fact, they are leaning over hackward. They are doing so because probably the most sensational scientific conclusion in history would he the verdict that life had heen found to exist outside this planet, in this case on Mars. So every possible objection to the hypothesis of Martian life is being considered and given due weight.

Nevertheless, the evidence in favor of the hypothesis that life exists on Mars is beginning to mount impressively. Originally it was only the Viking I experiments that produced the amazing, anomalous results which raised the possibility that Martian life had been detected. But now experiments conducted by instruments from Viking 2, working in a Martian location far distant from the Viking 1 lander site, have hegun to tell a similar

It is no longer possible to maintain that some unknown peculiarities either of the Viking 1 instruments or of the Viking 1 site explain the initial results. The exotic chemical findings detected by the instruments of both Viking landers are apparently telling us something fundamental about the planet Mars itself and what exists there.

It is true that the case for Martian life is still far from proved. The chemical tests that have produced all the excitement could conceivably be due to the strange chemistry of a strange planet, though no chemist seems to see clearly how this could be,

Most telling, perhaps, no trace of carbon has yet been detected on Mars; and all life we know of is hased on carbon compounds. But has the time come for scientists to consider seriously the hypothesis that Martian life might be built about some central chemical other than

... Enter the Enterprise

Out in California the other day, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration finally rolled out the Enterprise, the major component of the space shuttle which will begin a new era in space travel. The ungainly craft was originally scheduled to be called the Constitution, but President Ford yielded to the entreaties of the many admirers of TV's "Star Trek," whose fictional spaceship is the Enterprise.

The purists are indignant and charge that what has happened has been a press agent's coup. No doubt the charge is true. Nevertheless, tribute to all the forms of imaginative entertainment that have spurred interest in space and science this past century is long overdue. On that subject, when will an American space vehicle be named the Jules Verne? If there were any justice. one with that name would have reached the moon long ago.

On a more mundane level, the battle is still going on between the admirers and the critics of the space shuttle. The former see the shuttle as permitting a whole range of new activities that will be highly rewarding. They base that belief on the fact that the shuttle will permit the employment of reusable space vehicles, in place of the "throwaway" rockets that are now employed. The skeptics view the space shuttle as a sort of Easel paid for by taxpayers' dollars at the expense of more important programs.

It is evident, however, that the space age is just beginning-and it seems likely that the Enterprise will make a major contribution to man's ultimate conquest of space.

Laos: Promises, Promises

Probably no Communist party in the world has urged as often or as long-over a period of two decades-a coalition government with its country's major non-Communist parties, and continuation of a pluralist society, as has the People's Revolutionary Party of Laos. Promises and performance, however, match poorly.

Only days after Hanoi's victory in the Vietnam war, the Pathet Lao moved in May 1975 toward complete control of the year-old Provisional Government of National Union, the latest of a series of coalition governments with traditionalist and neutralist parties. The top political and military leaders of the non-Communist forces fled to Thailand, leaving only a facade of lesser figures, pius the then powerless neutralist Premier, Souvanna Phouma, and the Royal family.

In December, the facade was eliminated. The coalition and the 600-year-old monarchy were abolished and the Communist Party, clandestine until then even within the Lao Patriotic Front—the political arm of the Pathet Laoannounced its existence for the first time and the names of a few of its leaders. Nine months later, only seven members of the party's Politburo and 15 members of its Central Committee have been identified. But their iron. totalitarian grip on a small, gentle people is everywhere visible, as are their disastrous policies of centralized control and doctrinal, inefficient management.

More than 100,000 and perhaps as many as 200,000 Laotians have fled across the Mekong River to Thailand, denuding the country of most of its skilled technocrats, agronomists, economists and businessmen. At least 20,000 others have been arrested and sentenced—usually without trial-to indefinite terms in "re-education centers" deep in the jungles and mountains. Severe restrictions against travel out of rural areas sharply reduced the urban food supply-until a recent relaxation of the

The economy is gradually running down, with prices soaring in gray and black markets, where the exchange rate for the Laotian kip is one-fifth that of the official rate. Even security is poor, a rarity in a police state. Armed Pathet Lao soldiers in baggy green fatigues swagger everywhere through Vientiane and other towns. But the streets are not safe at night, and in the countryside small guerrilla units and bands of thieves make travel dangerous even on main roads.

Laotians, said Prime Minister and party secretary Kaysone Phomvihan in June, "prefer to live a miserable life as the masters of their own country . . . than to live a happy life enslaved by foreigners." But even that potential boon has been denied to Laotians.

American influence is gone but it has been replaced by the Russians and, above all, by the ever-present North Vietnamese, whose 30,000 troops still hold large areas of the country. Laotians are being told they "must understand" the difficulties. There is no doubt that they do, now that they have seen the worth of the Commu-

Right to Food: On the Intent of a Resolution The Balloon-Loan Tr

I read with regret James C. Thomson's Sept. 13 Op-Ed column, "The Right to Food." Mr. Thomson unfortunately misconstrues the intent of the resolution pending before Congress. This misreading is particularly regrettable given its timing. The resolution may come to the House floor as soon as next week.

Mr. Thomson argues that s Congressional reaffirmation of every person's right to food will place on United States farmers an obligation "to produce s cheap necessity to which everyone is entitled for little or nothing." He also states that the resolution would commit this country to "guarantee the world's . . . increasing four billion people an adequate diet or standard of hving near our level." To reason in this fashion is to misinterpret or ignore the resolution's stated objectives and legislative evolution.

The resolution is not a food "handout" proposal. Its supporters would have no quarrel with Mr. Thomson's assertion that the food problems of developing nations cannot be solved without indigenous efforts to increase economic growth rates and per capita purchasing power. The importance of recipient country self-belp development efforts is explicitly recognized in the resolution:

The fourth resolved paragraph calls upon the United States to "increase substantially its assistance for selfhelp development among the world's. poorest people . . . with particular emphasis on increasing food production and encouraging improved food distribution and more equitable patterns of economic growth."

Neither is the resolution an attempt to place the United States in tha position of being the food supplier of last resort. It does seek to insure that efforts to combat hunger will be given fundamental consideration in the formulation and implementation of U.S. policy in all areas which bear on hunger. It does not however, impose any binding obligations on the United States in international or domestic law or after the nature of existent commitments. Instead, it proposes guidelines for future policy, goals toward which we should work.

Mr. Thomson raises important points about economic-development assistance. But be mistakenly mixes these issues with the thrust of the resolution. The effect is to cast the resolution in a mold its sponsors have carefully sought to avoid. I hope Mr. Thomson will take the opportunity to re-examine his position.

Of Religion and Equality To the Editor: .. . .

I concur wholeheartedly with Dan Herr's thesis [Op-Ed Sept. 2] that only ordination of women will provide the impetes for their reintroduction into the church as the powerful, cynamic force they have beretofor been. As a psychoanalyst, consultant to religious orders and former faculty member at a Catholic women's cotlege, I am aware of the profound trauma American religious women have been undergoing for the past decade:

Mother Therese of India, possibly the most highly regarded nun of our time, was recently interviewed for American TV during the recent Eucharistic Congress by Philip Scharper, and stated that if Jesus bad wished that women be ordained, His mother Mary, the first bearer of His flesh and bloo., would have been the most natural candidate. Mother Therese, most of whose views on women as stated in that interview I warmly endorse, rails on this point to acknowledge the profound changes in our understanding of human psychology and sexuality that have occurred since Jesus' time, particularly those of this century. The Catholic church will continue to flourider until it accepts these new data as real, sees them, in theological terms, as God's continual revelation to us, and builds dogma and legislation based on the psychological equality of women to men as well as the absolute necessity of intimate relationships between the sexes to psychological growth throughout one's lifetime. This means orgination of women and marriage for all clergy who want it.

Right-to-Life 'Bigotry'

To the Editor: The letter of Raymond Jancauskas (Sept. 12) draws an indefensible conclusion that cries for rebuttal, Mr. Jancauskas states that Jimmy Carter denies himself the right to fight for his personal opposition to abortion by not supporting legislation to prohibit it. On the contrary, Mr. Carter has pointed out that in matters of private morality be supports the right of all to make their own decisions.

Intrinsically and by the nature of its advocates, the so-called "right to life" issue partakes of religious intolerance, and the efforts of the right-tolifers to impose their beliefs on everynce of bleouv.

Schools: How to Overcome Bad Times

To the Editor:

At the opening of the New York City schools on Sept. 13, school officials stressed problems "more serious and more potentially destructive of education" than at any time in history. High officials of the Board of Education and the teachers union predicted "more difficult times ahead" and continued to seek Federal empathy and funding as the solution.

The Public Education Association has no reservation about the seriousness of the crippling reductions in staff and services, but we think the time has come to stop looking for some hypothetical future salvation from Washington. Let us instead start working now toward improving now the education of the city's L1 million public school children.

P.E.A. believes there are ways to reduce the recent layoffs of teachers, restore the school day in compliance with state regulations, and restore an atmosphere of confidence that learning can take place in our schools. We suggest the following as first steps toward these goals:

1. Use the $48 million now earmarked for wage increases under the still unapproved U.F.T. contract to return 2,500 teachers to the classrooms.

2. Reorganize functions at the central board and within the schools to giva priority to classroom instruction for the duration of the crisis. 3. Increase productivity, as in other city agencies, beginning with reduced Public Education Association.

teacher absenteeism and revision of excessing rules that will permit teachers to remain in programs for which they are trained - a common-sense practice violated by extensive citywide seniority "bumping." 4. Develop new and creative thinking about the changes needed in the delivery of our educational services so that despite the fiscal crisis, quality education can be provided through greater use of out-of-school community resources and greater cooperation between the schools and other youthserving agencies.

Times are indeed bad for teachers and for the schools-and most importantly for a generation of school children, but we must stop dwelling on how bad they are. "Bad times" can be a comfortable excuse for poor performance. P.E.A. believes, and we encourage all New Yorkers to believe, that our great city can provide for the development and growth of its greatest asset-our children. We must dare to think new thoughts and look for new solutions. We must be willing to make the drastic and perhaps uncomfortable changes needed to update our educational system so that quality education can be provided within the funds available during the immediate crisis and in the future.

'New York City's Schools Are Being Bludgeoned'

By Bernard R. Gifford

For nearly three years I have served as deputy charicellor and chief business officer of the New York City public schools. During the last 18 months I have been an unwilling participant-observer of its dismemberment authorizing (and sometimes ordering) drastic cuts in programs and staff—and this in spite of the growing, unfulfilled educational needs of our student population.

Last year, the school system's budget was cut by $262 million, an amount specified by the Mayor and the Emergency Financial Control Board. In order to accommodate this cut, while at the same time improving teacher productivity and minimizing the increase in average class size, the school week for elementary and intermediate pupils was shortened by 90 minutes. An equivalent reduction in the high schools was obtained by eliminating elective courses in foreign languages, mathematics, history and social studies. This strategy of retrenchment—some call it desperation—must be continued because of additional budget cuts.

Programs traditionally considered an integral, necessary part of public education have been slashed. Interscholastic sports, adult - education classes, evening trade high schools, after-school compensatory and recreational programs, and summer school for students attempting to accelerate nr make up for past failures these are a few of the programs cut by more than 50 percent this last year.

Caught between the grinding forces of inflation and further hudget cuts, the mere survival of these programs is now in serinus jeopardy. With the new cutbacks, it remains to be seen whether something as basic as custodial and maintenance services will be sufficient to avoid major health-code violations in many of the school system's nider structures.

This last year we were forced to lay off 16.5 percent of our teaching staff. In fact, the reduction was so severe that pupil-teacher ratios increased to levels that have not been seen in New York City since 1964, And over the summer yet another round of staff reductions was mandated by the city's three-year plan for fiscal recovery. This means that we have started this new school year with an estimated cumulative cut in teachers, since June 1975, of 22.9 percent-a plunge from 56,623 to 43,630 teachers supported by city funds.

During the present school year, at every level of instruction, pupil-teacher ratios will retrogress even further, back to what they were in the late 1950's—a time when education suffered because of an acute teacher sburgage. The impact of this oo all students is ominnus, but especially so for those who have the least. In our special education programs for children with physical, mental and emotional disabilities, pupil-teacher ratios will climb to levels that existed when the needs of the handicapped were largely averlooked by public officials. At best this prior neglect was a "conspiracy of studied ignorance" - a conspiracy that was only recently broken as a result of legal challenges to the status quo hy child advocacy groups, and judicial recognition that the promise of equal educational opportunity established by the 1954 Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka decision should be extended tn all. But now, under the cover of "fiscal responsibility," that promise is being

The challenges facing the public school system today are far more complex than they were in the late 1950's and early 60's.

Our students are far poorer. In 1960, slightly more than 10 percent of the pupil population was eligible to receive free lunches because these children came from low-income families. By 1974, this poverty indicator had increased to 51 percent,

Not only are increasing numbers of pupils coming from poor families, many more of these pupils come from families that are dependent poor. Between 1960 and 1975, the number of children in families receiving some form of family assistance increased by more than 230 percent. In many school districts, more than one-third of the pupils are members of dependent poor

There has been a complete reversal in the ethnic composition of nur student population. In 1960, almost twothirds of nur students were white, but today those two-thirds are black and Hispanic. Many abservers see more than casual irony in the "coincidence" of the school system's present ethnic composition and the drastic level of cutbacks.

The number of "high cost" students, those in special education programs and in junior and senior high schools, is far higher today than it was in 1960. This development is usually nverlooked by those drawing comparisons between teacher workloads in 1960 and today.

Collective bargaining by teachers, a nationwide phenomenon, has resulted in decreased "productivity." Teachers now have smaller classes and teach fewer bours than they did in 1960, back when low salaries and difficult working conditions made them nbjects of widespread and justifiable public sympathy. Nor are teachers today nbliged to perform many other chores-such as supervising school cafeterias and extra activities-considered a routine part of the job in 1960.

A careful review of the literature nn government finance covering the period since 1900 (with special emphasis nn the impact of the Great Depression of the 1930's) reveals that nn municipal agency providing basic public services education, police, fire. sanitation, welfare, and emergency health services for the indigent-has been forced to absorb cuts of the magnitude or at the rate experienced by the public schools of New Ynrk City over the last 18 months.

Althnugh 1 subscribe to the hardnosed belief that the true measure of any publicly financed social-service enterprise is output, not input, I must still conclude that New York City's public schools are being bludgeooed.

Any similarity between the type of education being offered by our schools and what is commonly meant by equal educational opportunity is at best speculative, and at worst a fabrication. If there is any relationship between the resources we commit and the subsequent level of student echievement -something accapted by a large number of middle-class parents who have put their children in costly private schools with pupil-teacher ratios half as low as ours—then more than one million children in nur public school system are being denied equality of apportunity in an area of life they can

This is the reality that confronts us. It will not gn away, nor will it be transformed by well-meaning platitudes and rhetorical generalities about the need to live within the fiscal plan. The plan will be complied with because it is the law. But the price of compliance must not be ignored. The cost of settling yesterday's debt may be permanent bankruptcy for the school system, the institution whose performance will largely determine whether New York City's slide towards social and fiscal insolvency can be reversed.

This article is odapted from the introductory section of an extended report prepared by the office of the deputy choncellor, New York City Board of

Carter on China

By William Safire

WASHINGTON-When Jimmy Carter, gave a somewhat confused answer to a question about United States-China relations this summer, an essayist seeking clarification was told by a Carter side: "We'll have to check this nut with Professor Cohen."

Jerome Aian Cohen, associate dean of the Harvard Law School and one of the world's leading authorities no Chinese legal studies, was consulted. He wrote a brief statement which was issued as the Carter position.

Accordingly, the appearance this week nf an article titled "A China Policy for the Next Administration" in Foreign Affairs magazine by Professor Cohen carries weight. Nine years ago, Richard Nixon chose the same forum to hint at his future China policy in "Asia After Vietnam"; not many people noticed. Professor Cohen is far more explicit and his article deserves close study.

The man who has candidate Carter's ear makes the astute observation that "America has begun to acquiesce in Chinese purchase of selected military items from our allies," and urges that we "rescind those export control rules that permit sales of technologies to the U.S.S.R. but deny them to

But on the whole, Professor Cohen argues, we should not "tilt" toward Peking rather than Moscow: We should treat, them evenhandedly. "The United States must make it clear to Peking that it will not sacrifice détente with the U.S.S.R."

That attitude comes as a shocker to those of us whn think that the United States should indeed "tilt" toward the weaker of the two Communist powers, exploiting their rut to squeeze arms limitation agreements out of the U.S.S.R. But the Carter adviser is just getting started.

It is time, he writes, to de-recognize Taiwan and to establish a fullsized embassy in Peking. With admi-rable consistency, he admits that this would require abrogating our defense treaty with the 16 million anti-Communist residents of Taiwan. "Here lies the real challenge to American diplomacy-how to terminate the defense treaty without seriously damaging morale on Taiwan and turning prosperity into panic."

How is that done? "Some type of public assurance from Peking that would rule out the use of force against Taiwan, while not indispensable, would be desirable. . "But Professor Cohenknows that is wishful thinking: The Chinese consider such an assurance to be throwing away their sovereignty, and recent signals have been that one day the defense pact with "some form of unilateral American commitment." which turns out to be a fuzzy assertion of America's "interest in a peaceful settlement," plus a "solemn policy declaration" by the President and "continuing sale, under private auxpices" of American arms.

Professor Cohen insists "such a policy surely does not constitute an 'abandonment of Taiwan' or 'selling Taiwan into Communist subjugation." But it aurely does.

He assures us that "few expect the People's Republic to attempt a violent conquest of Taiwan after termination of the defense treaty, even if the U.S. should fail to provide a substitute for the treaty." Sorry; not so few. He goes on to assume the unaided Taiwanese defenders "can be expected to make the military price of any Communist victory unacceptable to Peking."

Unacceptable losses? Tn the 950 million Chinese, whose army did not shrink from "human wave" attacks? Then the processor tosses in the possibility that the Taiwanese might one day "go nuclear"—but the Chinese on the mainland see that as an incentive to invade sooner rather than later. .

The Cohen-Carter view contains important qualifiers and is the product of a serious expert who commands respect and deserves lengthier analysis. The view is profoundly wrong, in my opinion, in its central assumptionthat Tarwan is more important to the Chinese than America's resistance to the expansion of Soviet influence.

That view is mistaken, too, in warning that if we do not break with Taiwan so as to upgrade our liaison office in Peking to an embassy, then the new leaders in China will grow impatient with us and re-embrace

The only policy that will encourage China to remain an opponent of Moscow is United States firmness toward Moscow. Certainly China wants Taiwan, and would grab it, given the chance—but the Chinese leaders put first things first, and the balance between the "barbarian" superpowers comes first.

The Cohen-Carter view seeks to assuage Chinese concern about our accommodation of Moscow by an accommodation of China. That only compounds appearement. We should induce Chinese cooperation by using the threat of that cooperation to negotiate more aggressively with the Soviets.

At least the Carter people are telling us what they think about China. The Ford policy is a mystery wrapped Taiwan would be conquered by force. in an enigma hidden inside a shuttle.

Getting a second opinion on elective surgery may save money. We have a new program that offers a free second opinion by a certified specialist in cases of elective-nonemergency-surgery.

We've made this benefit available to all "experience rated" groups of

A recent study cited by Congress reported that in 17.6% of the cases surveyed, a second specialist, when consulted, disagreed with an original opinion that favored surgery.

That could save a lot of surgery...

And a lot of money. We at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York are giving the idea a full-scale trial to see if indeed the second opinion will help us control costs.

Also, we see this second opinion as improving the quality of care being

More than costs alone are at stake. The patient is saved the surgery and also

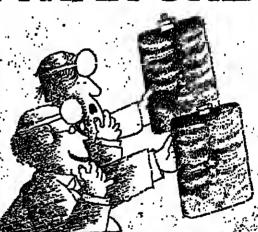

And, in the case of the second specialist agreeing, the patient would be greatly reassured.

But savings in tests, surgery and hospital time could be considerable under this program, and better use of resources should result.

We're trying to eliminate unnecessary operations. Eliminating all of them may be too big a task.

Some doctors have estimated that many tonsillectomies performed on children in this country may be unnecessary. And that's only one example.

Ending even a majority of these operations is obviously a huge endeavor. But it's worth the effort.

There are lives as well as monies to consider, and the beneficial effect on the patient's decision-making.

Our new program may be an answer to improving the quality of care, the use of facilities, the patient's peace of mind, and the cost situation.

We're offering this program at no initial cost. We'd like it to be as widely accepted as possible. And if the results are favorable, we hope to extend it to all groups, not just

Taylor, museum director: k we'll be a great success SUPERLAnd besides, there's a of love for us ..."

ELEVISIO

When Cooper Union ousted the Cooper-Hewitt Museum of Design from its premises in 1963, the future did not look rosy for the destitute institution, one of the world's greatest treasure houses of the decorative arts.

Now, 13 years and $6 million later, the reborn and radically revamped museum will again open to the public on Oct. 7 in splendid new quarters, the renovated Carnegie mansion at Fifth Avenue and 91st Street. Its success story is a shared victory, for the citizens committee that rallied to sava it; the Smithsonian Institution, which eventually took it over; its tenacious director, Lisa S. Taylor, and the City of New York, which has regained a distinguished museum of the arts of design, as oatlooal in scope as the Victoria and Albert Museum in Londoo and the Musee des Arts Decoratifs in

"I think we'll be a great success," predicts Mrs. Taylor, to whom goes much of the credit for raising funds, "because we have a superb collection and people are becoming more and more aware of how design relates to the quality of life. And besides, there's a feeling of love for us because we've made it."

Collection Spans 3,000 Years

The museum's far-ranging collection covers 3,000 years of artistic production, but it is also very much in touch with contemporary concerns, such as urban planning and the environment.

Although conceived in 1857 by Peter

Cooper, the inventor-philanthropist who founded Cooper Union, the museum was not established until 1897 by his three granddaughters, Sarah, Eleanor and Amy Hewitt, on the fourth floor of Cooper Union at Astor Place. Always oriented to working designers, in recent years it has broadened its col-lecting categories to include architec-ture, advertising, fashion, industrial and interior design.

The only design museum in the country devoted to both the past and the present, it has worked bard to stay relevant. In the early 1970's, for ex-undertook a year's analysis under a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts, rethinking policy and pro-grams, and initiated measures to update the museum's collections as well as its concepts. Because, for example, so much of contemporary design con-sists of whole systems uncollectable by conventional means, Mrs. Taylor explains, the museum will document them through a collection of films and slides. The museum is gradually moving into the 64-room Carnegie mansioo from Miller House, an adjacent town house once occupled by Andrew Carnegie's daughter. When the mansioo is completely installed, Miller House will be used for contemporary exhibitions.

The mansion itself, renovated with private funds at a cost of more than $2.5 million by Hardy Holzman Pfeiffer Associates, will contsin on its third floor a library and the Doris and Henry Dreyfuss Study Center, given by friends and the family of the late designers, along with their collection.
The second and first floors will house the museum's decorative arts collection, along with changing exhibitions. At the east end of the vast entrance hall, paneled in dark oak, a large glass conservatory, restored through the gift of Enid Haupt, will eventually display a collection of plants.

"I never had any doubt that all this would happen. The frustrating thing is it took so long." Mrs. Taylor said the other day, surveying the still-unfinished premises she has been assured will be ready by opening day. "But it's nice to be at the end of it because 'I wouldn't have the energy now."

Fund Raising and Auctions

Mrs. Taylor's association with the nuseum began in 1969, when sha was named as its director by S. Dillon Rip-ley, secretary of the Smithsonian In-stitution, after she had helped devise a highly successful Smithsonian educa-tional program. The Smithsonian had taken over the Cooper-Hewitt two years earlier at the instigation of a citizens' rescue committee, headed by the late Henry du Pont.

The Smithsonian could easily have housed the Cooper-Hewitt In Washington, but feeling ran strong among its supporters that it should stay in New York, because New York is a design center and also other collections had developed around it. Mrs. Taylor explained. lo 1972 the Carnegie Corporation dooated the mansioo, built in 1901 for the steel magnate Andrew Carnegie, and only then did fund-raising begin.

Over the next four years Mrs. Taylor and her staff succeeded in obtaining more than $6 million from foundations, corporations and private individuals.

staff consists of about 20 persons. The most recent one to leave was Eileen Hoats, the third highest ranking official on the board. Miss Hoats, who used to be executive director of the Consumer Assembly, a private consumer organiza-tion in New York, was responsible for legislative affairs and coordination of the board's New York office.

'Not Possible To Operate'

"I quit because the agency could not function as an advocate for consumers, said Miss Hoats. "It couldn't because of University as a legitimate consumerits inherent lack of power, and because education activity. the staff's morale had sunk to a point where it could not be reversed, except possibly by a complete change in leader-ship. The staff is angry, frustrated and in that atmosphere."

The one area in which the hoard has been granted formal power to intervene in the actions of another state agency is utility cases. Edward Berlin, a Public Service Commission commissioner, said:

"It is difficult to find any instance in which the board's participation in utility cases has made a positive difference to consumers above and heyond that provided by the commission staff." (The staff is charged with presenting con-sumer-oriented evidence.)

Mr. Berlin was appointed by the Gov-ernor because of his strong consumer and environmental credentials, among them his work for the Environmental Defense Fund.

The report issued by the board says that evidence it presented in utility cases was responsible for saving the state's consumers $122 million. Asked for details on that assertion

John Esposito, general counsel to the board, said that $90 million of that amount was saved in the most recent plained that the utility had asked the commission for a rate of return of 14 percent, while the commission's staff argued for 11.6 percent. The board pre-sented testimony that II percent was sufficient. The commission decided on 12

"Usually the commission compromises in that kind of situation by coming in with a decision midway between what the staff asks and what the company asks," said Mr. Esposito. "We think that by being six-tenths of a percent lower than the staff we influenced the commission to decide on a lower rate than they otherwise would have."

Asked to comment on that statement, Mr. Berlin said it is "totally erroneous to say that the commission ever simply splits the difference between what the utility asks for and what the staff or other parties recommend."

In the areas of consumer legislation and advocacy, the board's report lists scores of bills it "prepared," and several subjects about which it presented tests mony or gathered information, Among the bills were attempts to reform the state's credit laws, allow generic prescribing of prescription drugs, require fresh dating on perishable foods and remove prohibitions against the advertising of eyeglasses and prescription drugs.

CHILD-REARING COST IS PUT NEAR $85,000

Projection Estimates the Expense Until Age 18 for a Baby Born in New York City This Year

It may cost $84,777 to raise a child horn in New York City this year from birth through bis 18th birthday.

The estimate was made public yester-day by the Community Council of Greater New York. The social service research and coordinating group's executive direc-tor, Bernard M. Shiffman, suggested that young couples planning to have children ebould realize that they faced "a heavy financial burden."

The projection is based on a family living in rented apartments, furnishing its own home, using public transportation, taking modest vacations and sending children to public schools. The family is considered to stay in the same place on the economic ladder.

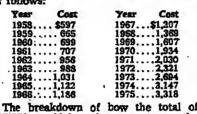

The cost does not include maternity or other birth-related expenses, any ex-traordinary medical and dental expenses or any payment toward a college educa-tion. For the first year of the child's life, the cost was estimated at $1,835. The estimate was based on the cost of raising a child who is the younger of two children in a four-person family boping to support itself on a moderate standard of living. A first or only child would cost more, since the calculations for a four-person family divide shelter costs by four. For a family with three children, the calculation would be reduced by dividing shelter costs by five.

1958 Estimate

The council said its new estimate, made by Edith Taittonen, the chief of its budget standard service, more than tripled the estimate of $27,578 made in 1958.

The council described the steady ris in yearly costs for a child born in 1958 as follows:

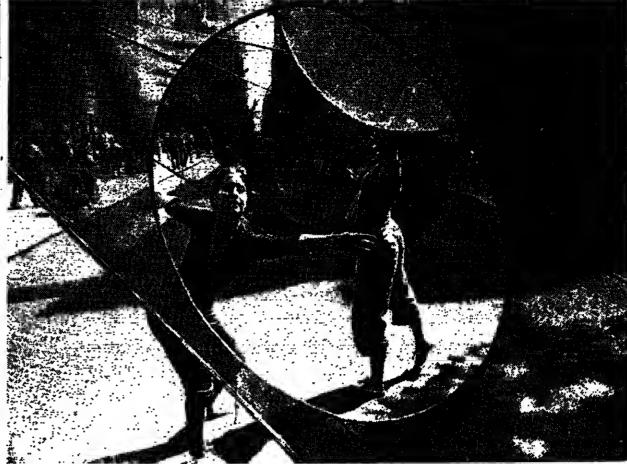

27,578 would have been spent over the

Jersey Temple Buries Articles Damaged in Fire

Special to The New York Times

BOONTON, N.J., SEPT. 19-Templa Beth Shalom buried its fire-scarred prayer books and prayer shawls today in a simple graveside ceremony on the synagogue grounds.

The 250 books, 200 shawls and other religious articles fell victim last Jan. 18 to a fire set by two vandals, one 8 years old and the other 12.

Packed in a plain wooden coffin, the articles were solemnly lowered into a six-foot-deep grave by four coogregants as Rabbi Gerald Chirnomas intoned prayers from the Book of Psalms.

In an interview, the 37-year-old Con-servative rabbi recalled the day of the fire. The Torahs the temple's holiest possessions, were saved from destruction, be said, by the Rev. Dr. Peter Durkee, Boonton's Presbyterian minister and chaplain to the volunteer fire department. The temple had burst into flames at 4 P.M. that Sunday after the two youngsters had thrown lighted matches through a basement window.

Dr. Durkee arrived at the burning building just in time to direct the firemen to the arc, where the scrolls of the Torah were kept. Since the fire, the congregation has

The museum's dedication was a result of several years of hard work by local residents to memorialize the exploits of many of America's aviation pioneers, who did much of their early work here.

"As we continue to cross future fron-tiers in aviation," said Senator Harri-soo A. Williams Jr., Democrat of New Jersey, "it is only fitting and just that we should continue to honor those men and women whose daring, and whose sacrifices made possible the achievements of the present. During the 1920's, Teterboro Airport was at the center of America's golden age of aviation, Famous flyers such as Cmdr. Richard Byrd, Floyd Bennett,

Charles A. Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart spent time here flying and perfect-ing their aircreft. Their exploits ena-bled the United States to move to the forefront of world aviation. Many of America's top aircraft manufacturers and innovators were also based bere.

The museum, on the two top floors of an abandoned alr tower, was pur-chased by the Teterboro Airport Hall of Fame, a nonprofit group, after several years of negotiations with the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey and Pan American World Airways. Pan American leased the airport from the Port Authority. The museum includes bronze plaques of the famous flyers plus memorabilia such as wings and engines from famous aircraft. The museum also includes facilities for slide shows and movie presentations.

Officials of the museum are interested in obtaining support for the pur-chase of a hangar at the airfield where a more permanent museum can be

But for the hundreds and hundreds of children who came, accompanied hy parents or uncles or friends of their parents, the fair was excitement, a place to see camels, ride on an elephant, huy cotton candy and take the "limar walk," a large phastic tent over a floor of long, air-filled cylinders, which delightfully upset one's equilibrium when one was among the children bouncing at unpredictable intervals and shricking with delight.

The fair was not an easy place to visit without money, since both sides of Atlantic Avenue from Fourth Avenue, near the reviewing stand, down to. Furman Street were lined with merchants of all kinds.

The really bustling commerce, how-ever, was in the block between Court and Henry Streets, where Middle Eastera food stores and restaurants are so abundant. It was a risky topic one that Jim and Alice had tried to discuss before in the privacy of their home. Alice would angrily accuse Jim of being married to his business. Jim would reply defensively that this extra work was short-lived and would soon be over. The discussion would end with

Did each express his feelings, thoughts, desires, impressions, intentions? Did they check out their understanding of what the other had said, asking for clarification when needed rather than assuming a meaning that the other might not have intended?

Did they steer clear of statements that were blaming accusing demanding, evasive or manipulative and instead take responsibility for their own feelings and reactions and explore those of the other? Not "You make

Classical music is giving rock a run for its money at showrooms around town-Oscar de la Reota chose Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnole" to set the mood for his romantic lothes.

Miss Vanderhilt, whose audience was sprinkled with friends and relations, including her four sons, wore a white lace aproo over her bouffaot. navy taffeta skirt when she acknowledged the enthusiastic applause at the end of the show.

"Feel Like Cinderella" "I feel like Cinderella," she said afterward, wheo she left with her hushand, Wyatt Cooper, and their children. By this time she had changed into hlue jeans and a greeo sweater with toggle closings, like a duffle coat. Io her collection, her second on Seventh Avenue, she showed a fondness for lace in creamy heige tones in jackets over silk or cotton dress, in ruffled shawls and loose coats.

It was one of her offbeat touches that, along with her curved-front jacket shapes and her bourfant cotton evening dresses protected with lace aprons, gave the clothes a personal, distinc-

'She said she was thinking about Main a lot when she was doing the collection," said Esme Hammood, a friend who was also dressed hy Mainbocher uotil the custom designer went out of husiness. Soma of the mood rubbed off, Mrs.

Hammond believes. Wheo he isn't recommending black silk tennis outfits, Halstoo suggests oarrow, almost pipe-stem slim pants to his resort customers.

Otherwise, he stays pretty moch with his established favorites. The Ultrasuede avalanche continues, now paired with crepe de chine or chiffoo. The skewed V neckline, almost always with ao Elsa Peretti pin at the base, turns up in a cotton knit dress for daytime as well as in the more glamorous chiffons. Halston has introduced a whole oew generation of women to the joys of strapless dressing, without the bones and wires of the Brenda Frazier era. Halstoo just knots and twists and the dresses seem to stay up. They look pretty, too. . His other cootribution, the dress with a single seam that spirals around the body, has become even more sensual looking as he gets used to the idea. When it's combined with a strapless top and a superior figure, the effect is just devas-Rudi Gernreich, who announced he was taking a sabbatical six years ago, has made infrequent forays into the fashion husiness since then.

Fashion's bad boy of tha 1960's-neither fashioo nor Gernreich has ever recovered from his introduction of the topless bathing suit of 1964 -has matured. Or perhaps the rest of the world has caught up with him. His oewest venture is a low-keyed collection for Atelier 7, made in Los Angeles, where he lives.

"Very understated, very simple," he says. "Marvelous to work with great silks."

Loose dresses or loose tops with pants are sexy enough, but they're out see-through. Time

Synthesizes Trends

Doo Sayres, who was still in school when Gernreich's star star was highest, has managed a nthesis of the two dominant trends today in his Gamut collection.

Women are too sophisticated oow to be told there's only one way to dress," he explains. 'What I've tried to point out is that they doo't have to make a choice hetween romantic or fantasy clothes and tailored ooes-the two go to-

And so his tailored suits come in romantic colors (mauve; pale green). There's a touch of lace oo the shirt that goes with them, a flash of eyelet petticoat under the skirt. # In Interest of Clarification: The Uses of Egg Shells, Indian (

By CRAIG CLAIBORNE

A few Sundays ago we printed an assortment of recipes calling for homemade aspic. The aspic was made with a fresh broth such as chicken or fish to which crushed egg shells and egg whites were added before simmering and straining.

We subsequently heard from a reader in Stony Brook, L. I., who stated that the recipe "really hlew my mind."

"You gave the recipe for aspic," she said and asked if we were really serious about "crushing an egg shell into the preparation." She adds that she has been in a "culinary dither" ever since. Indeed, we were serious in adding the crushed egg shell. Egg whites and egg shells are traditional ingredients for clarifying soups and aspics. The egg whites and shells tend to absorb the foreign elements in hroths that make them cloudy.

We might add that ground raw meat and chopped vegetables such as leeks and celery are also used, along with egg whites and egg shells, in clarificatioo of consommes. The blood of the raw meat has a clarifying effect as well. We will leave the reasons for such chemical reactions to the savants.

In a recent discourse on creme fraiche, which we described as a rich, thickened, slightly sour-tasting form of heavy cream, particularly suited to fruits and numerous desserts, we offered a formula sent to us by a reader io which she prepared the food hy adding a hit of yogurt to heavy cream and letting it stand until thickened. It elicited a comment from Lillian Lilien of Piscataway, N. J., who expressed a preference for an earlier formula for making the dish that we had quoted from Simone Beck, the cookbook author.

That recipe, she stated, holds up from two to three weeks after it is refrigerated. The recipe calls for one cup of heavy cream combined in a screw-top jar with one tablespoon of huttermilk. This combination is shaken for a minute and left to stand at room temperature for 24 hours. It is then refrigerated for 24 hours before using.

Mrs. Lilieo added that she had horrowed an idea from a commercial producer of crème fraiche, which, when available, costs, incidentally, more than $5 a pint. For desserts, she combines a quarter cup of home-made crème fraiche with three-quarters of a cup of fresh heavy cream. She hlends this with half a teaspoon of vanilla and a bit of sugar to taste.

About a year ago we were the happy recipient of a smart-looking ceramic glass jar containing a pint or so of solidified, clarified hutter.

The friend who gave it to us stated that it was homemade ghee and advised us to use it whenever we cooked Indian style. We discussed ghee recently with another acquaintance, who also stated categorically that ghee was the fat always used in Indian kitchens.

We pursued the subject through the index of the book on Indian cookery to which we most often make reference, Madhur Jaffrey's "An Invitation" to Indian Cooking" (Alfred A. Knopf, 1973), and we quote from it as follows:

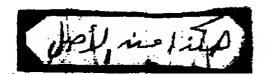

"There is a slight misconception even among knowledgeable Americans, which is that most Indian food is cooked lo ghee, and that ghee is clarified hutter. Actually, there are two kiods of ghee. The usli ghee or 'real cause my father iosia ghee' is indeed clarified butter, but if was too rich for a dai you consider India very rarely used.

"In a natioo wher are luxuries, cooking keep a small jar of kitchen and use it chapatis or dal, fo. dishes, or for religion purposes. "The other ghee, if commonly used, is m and is what is called ing in America. It is brand names—Dalda the most popularchased in large cans. -we always used this

Inside the areoa was the traditional Saturday afternoon blues program. When the Hollywood Fats Blues Band came on the audience let down its hair and got out of its scats dancing next to the neatly printed signs, which said, "No standing in the aisles."

The atmosphere was set for Jimmy Witherspoon. Whatever it takes to sing the blues, Mr. Witherspoon had it, and when he saog "The Over 40 Blues" he wasn't cry-ing. The audience loved it and gave him the only standlog ovation of the day, bringing him back for an

Music: Stern and Friends' I

The five-concert Isaac Stern and Friends chamber-music series came to a glorious conclusion yesterday after-noon in Carnegie Hall. Not all of these concerts may have been received with total rapture, but this one deserved to be.

Well, perhaps, not total we are still operating in the material world after all. One might bave complained that the Adagio from the Bruckner Quintet in F lacked that final tioy increment of authority and serenity, especially in the final measures. One might have wished to hear it within the context of the whole Quiotet.

And one regretted that curtailed rehearsal time meant the substitution of the originally scheduled Schoeoberg "Verilarie Nacht" with Brahams's Sexter life. I in B flat (On. 18), especially since the Schoenberg would have made such an interesting juxtaposition with the Bruckner. Maybe next year.

But one could hardly complain about the Brahms when it was played as loy-ingly as this. With Mr. Stern and Alex-ander Schneider as the vilolinists, Pinchas. Zirkerman and Jaime Laredo as the violists and Leonard Yo Ma as the cellists, thi music that blended sold and ensemble sensitivity measure.

The subject of "Going Up" is more imaginative than that of "Very Good Eddie" (a summer romance), but in some ways the "oew" show is not up to the musical level of its predecessor. There are some weak spots in the cast-ings, such as the author's overly stiff publisher. In the first act, the The show improves as it takes to the sir, and there is an ingenubefore answering affirmatively, the heroine breaks tinto a rapturous song. Everyone, including the ro-mantic leads, is conceived as a comic charater. This allows "Going Up" to avoid ai rpokets of sentimentality (at the same time it never glides into sophistication). never glides into sophistication).

Miss Farr plays her role as Celeste Holm might have—with an occasional skeptical laugh and all irony intended. Arms akimbo and swiveling his head. Mr. Glaisdell seems to have taken comedy instruction from Robert Morse. Each is funny, hut "Going Up" is hijacked by supporting players, the hero and heroine's best friends.

In these twn secondary rnies, the exuberant Maureen Brennan and the ingratiating Walter Bobbie share two of the musical's most huoyant songs and some of Otto Harbach's most clever lyrics (as in "I want a boy with a strong strong will/who will do what I tell him to do"). There is also a dryly amusiog contribution from Pat Lysinger as a bedeviled telephone operator.

The sprightliest soog and dance is the first-act curtain, "The Tickle Toe," which in common with many of the songs in the show has nothing to blo with flying. It is a benefit of the sought of the songs in the show has nothing to blo with flying. It is a benefit of the sought of the songs in the show has nothing to blo with flying. It is a knee-twisting, foot-kicking miniature frolic that convinces us that Dan stiff publisher. In the first act, the show seems to start, stop and stand still for dialogue; the original play does nnt seem fully musicalized. Actually three of the catchiest lonis A. # ABC'S Wide World of Sports joins Crown Recreation, Inc. to introduce a new and complete line of sporting goods.

ABC'S Wide World of Sports, which has been credited with elevating sports coverage to new heights over the last 15 years, is now helping to bring the nation's families their own personal "thrill of victory and agony of defeat" through a new line of sporting goods being introduced by Crown Recreation, Inc.

Roone Arledge, President of ABC Sports explained, "We hope that our accumulated knowledge of what appeals to sports fans and participants will be an integral part of product development."

Every product in this new line of sporting goods will meet a standard of excellence that's been characteristic of ABC'S Wide World of Sports since its beginning.

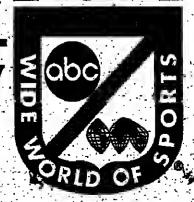

And to assure that quality, Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute, Inc., an independent testing laboratory, will test and approve all products before the ABC'S Wide World of Sports emblem goes on.

Along with Crown Recreation's 35 years of proven manufacturing capability, ABC'S Wide World of Sports hopes to become as famous for bringing America sporting goods as it has been for bringing America sporting events.

"Yeah," Hunter remarked, discussing the three pitchers, "but they won 500 games and there's no way I'm gonna win 500 games. I didn't think I was gonna win 100 games. Then when I won 100, I said no way I'm gonna win 200. You gotta have a lot of good plays hehind you and a lot of runs

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)-A home run by Jerry Morales and the seven-hit pitching of Ray Burris gave the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies today and prevented the Phillies from extending their lead over Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Morales hit his 16th homer to lead off the second inning off the losing pitcher, Jim Lonborg, and Burris gained his 14th victory against 13 losses. It was Burris's first victory over the Phillies this season, but he has a 6-1 won-lost record against them for his

Philadelphia Setback Kingman Clouts 2 -Pittsburgh Kept 4 Games Out

By THOMAS ROGERS Every loss in the final weeks of the National League schedule is paintul for the Pittsburgh Pirates, but their 7-6 setback to the Mets at Shea Stadium yesterday was undiluted agony. Squandering a 6-2 lead, the Pirates lost an opportunity to pick up a game on the Philadelphia Phillies, the East-ern Division leaders who were beaten in Chicago by the Cubs. With 14 games, remaining for each team, the Phillies lead the Pirates by four games.

"This was a real tough loss," admitted Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates. "We blew a four-run lead and lost a chance to gain ground. You can't catch anybody if you don't wur. Our chances are diminishing because we're running out of time."

Stearns, Kranepool Heories Losing to the Mets for the fourth time in five games in the last week, the Pirates fell victim to two home runs by Dave Kingman, who drove in five runs, a homer hy John Steams that tied the score, 6-6, a pinch single by Ed Kranepool that drove in the winning run and some superh relief pitch-ing by Skip Lockwood.

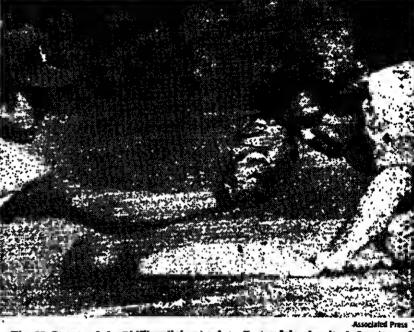

Kingman hit his 36th homer in the second inning and drove in another run with a sacrifice fly in the third. Then he hammered his 37th homer with two men on base in the fifth to start the Mets on the way back from the 6-2 deficit.

The liner into the Pittsburgh hull pen represented the most homers ever hit by a Met, breaking the record Kingman bad set last year. It was the sixth time this season that he has hit two bome runs in a game.

"There is no stadium that can hold that guy," said Willie Stargell. "He's got power and a great stroke. Some-day he's going to hit one out of Yel-lowstone National Park."

Stargell, also a power hitter of some reputation, helped build the early Pittsburgh lead with a two-run homer, his 18th of the season and his 53d against the Mets since 1963. His drive followed a two-run homer by Omar Moreno off Craig Swan in the fifth. Swan had

For sheer intimacy, though, you can't beat the psychiatrist -couch messages recorded each week by coaches like Joe Paterno for college football's hot lines. On the eve of Saturday's game with Ohio State, a game Penn State would lose, 12-7, Paterno's voice had just the right mixture of confidence and caution. Penn State had "fine football players." he said, but he was "concerned with the size of the squad,

Now Paterno will have to make a new recording as he evaluates Saturday's loss and looks ahead. He couldn't find a better model than the recorded message Coach Dan Devine delivered round the clock on last week's Notre Dame Hot

"I think we as coaches have to be careful about assessing a loss to a strong team like this," Devine was saying calmly Friday in reference to Notre Dame's defeat by Pittsburgh the previous week. "Our tendency in this case might be to be overcritical of a young team like ours. We made mistakes, of course—the kind of mistakes a young team makes, the kind of mistakes you can't afford to make against a squad the caliber of Pittsburgh.

- Devine had personally seen some "very positive things," be told the hot-line callers, and all the Irish needed was time. In the wake of last Saturday's 23-0 victory over Purdue, the Notre Dame coach can start playing the flip side of the record today.

Gottfried and Ramirez Capture U.S. Pro Doubles Tournament

WOODLANDS, Tex., Sept. 19 (AP)— The team of Brian Gottfried and Raul Ramirez rallied from a 2-5 deficit in the fourth set to beat Phil Dent and Alan Stone, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6 today and win the $100,000 United States professional doubles tennis champion-

Gottfried and Ramirez, the Nu. 1 team in the world, took only 55 min-utes to defeat Stone and Dent in the first two sets. They were on serve until the 12th game of the final set, when Ramirez lost his serve for only the second time in the tournament. The break came on a net error by Gott-fried and gave the eventual losers a chance to get back into the match.

The Gottfried-Ramirez team, which won at Wimbledon this year, collected $30,000 for the first prize. Dent and Stone received $15,000.

Vijay Amritaj Is Victor NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 19 (UPI)— Top-seeded Vijay Amritraj of India defeated Brian Teacher, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, to win the Miller Hail of Fame Tennis singles championship today. The first prize was $12,500. Teacher got $7,500.

In the third set, Amritral broke through with a backband crosscourt winner off Teacher's first serve to go np, 4-3, in games. He then won seven straight games before clinching the 90-minute match.

Title to Miss Wade

ATLANTA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Virginia Wade, within one point of losing, fought back to defeat Betty Stove of the Netherlands in the final of the $75,000 national women's indoor tennis cham-

North Caroline State, which was beaten by West Virginia in last winter's Peach Bowl, also has lost its first three starts this season. The Wolfpack bowed to East Carolina, 23-14, Saturday, extending a nonwinning streak to five games over two seasons. N.C. #### The Credit Account is a lesson in using credit to your advantage.

The Credit Account helps you use credit right, because it's credit with built-in advautages.

Here are some of the ways to use credit as it ought to be used.

Use The Credit Account instead of loans. You'll pay lower interest than on almost any installment loan.

Use it to pay off other credit that costs you more in interest. Like many department store charge accounts, credit card accounts, and revolving credit accounts.

Use The Credit Account to organize and pay off all your credit through one inexpensive credit source. One source, so you can review your entire credit picture at a glance.

And remember this, too: unlike some other kinds of credit, The Credit Account costs you onthing until you use it. Not a cent.

Another_advantage: privacy.

Once you have The Credit Account, why and when you need mooey becomes what it should be. Your husiness.

You only have to apply for the Account once, After that, there are no interviews when you need money. No application forms to fill out. No trouble.

Call (212) 895-3404 (516) 248-7020 or (914) 761-6400.

You can get The Credit Account by phone, too. Call us from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. any weekday.

Give us the information we need. We'll get back to you as soon as possible? with the amount of credit we can put in your Credit Account.

Or if you like, stop iu at the European-American branch that's hest for you.

The Credit Account will help you use credit the way credit was meant to be used. It's smart, and it works.

Ram Interception Saves 10-10 Tie With Vikings

By WILLIAM N. WALLACE Special in The New York Times

BLOOMINGTON, Minn., Sept. 19-Before the playoffs come in December, 196 games will have been played in the National Football League, a few memorable, many oot so. Today's 10-10 tie between the Los Angeles Rams and the Minnesota Vikings will fall into the memorable column as two of the memorable column as two of the league's best teams hammered at each other for 75 minutes, iocluding one scoreless overtime, and wound up dead even. The end was oegative but excit-ing for the 47,310 in the stands and millions watching oo national televi-

It came down to missed opportunities in the overtime period: Tom Dempsey's 30-yard field-goal attempt for Los Angeles was blocked by Minnesota's Nate Allen, and next fran Tarkenton's risky first-down pass from the Ram II was intercepted by Rick Kay, the linebacker, at the I with 64 seconds remaining. The Rams were content to hold the ball down there and avoid a 2-point safety.

Under N.F.L. rules one period of overtime is played after a deadlock and overtime is played after a deadlock and then the score stands.

"The kick was dead center," said Dempsey. 'That was the half game." Tarkenton said that when he threw the pass toward Sammy White he never saw Kay, who had drifted back Into the pattern. 'The wasn't supposed to be there," said Tarkenton. "That was the half game."

By passing at that point Tarkenton took away a chance at a winning field goal of 28 yards or less against a gusty 20-mile-an-hour wind by Fred Cox.

Possible Playoff Opponents Max Winter, president of the Vikings, said he was satisfied with the tie and Bud Grant, the Minnesota coach, echoed the view. "A tie was just," Grant said. Tom Mack, the Rams' all-pro guard, added, "After a great game in the coach was a great game." like that, all the effort, and you come out with nothing, it leaves you a little

Nothing is correct. Ties in the N.F.L. count in the standings as half a victory and half a defeat. The Vikings and Rams are so secure in their respective divisions, Central and Western of the National Conference, that they will both march to the playoffs, possibly to meet again in December, unless one or the other falls on its face.

That is unlikely from the way they played today, the Vikings attacking by the pass, the Rams on the ground. The defenses were outstanding, two of the best in pro football, and of the four scores three came after errors, meaning buman breakdowns that good football eventually produces.

The features of the first half were a goal-line staod by the Vikings, who stopped the Rams at the 1 oo fourth down, and a 33-yard Minnesota field goal by Cox set up by an interception of Pat Haden's second pass by Matt Blair

Three scores came in the fourth quarter as the defenses finally gave wsy, the first being a 56-yard touchdown pass, Tarkenton to Sammy White, as Rod Perry, the defender, fell down. The Perry, the defender, fell down. down. The Rams got a 42-yard field goal by Dempsey, concluding ao booest 48-yard drive, and theo they tied the game, 10-10, with 1:59 remaining in the fourth quarter. A fumble set up the touchdown as Harold Jackson of the Rams had an uplifting moment yesterday as Nate Allen of the Vikings hit him from below at Bloomington, Minn. Jackson caught pass for a first down.

Brent McClanahan, the Minnesota run-oer, was stripped of the ball by the redeeming Perry, a first-year starter at Perry picked up the fumble and returned it 26 yards to the Viking 11.

Jim Bertelsen scored the tying touchdown from the 1 four plays later.

Another citation was a second goal-line stand by the Vikings early in the fourth quarter. Lawrence McCutcheon of the Rams was hit and lost t he ball as he tried to leap into the end zone from the I and Autry Beamon, an obscure Viking, recovered the f um ble in the end zone for a Minnesota touch-hack rather than a Los Angeles touch-

Haden, the 23-year-old Los A ngeles-quarterback making his first start, drew universal praise for his efforts. Mack said of the Rhodes scholar, "The was great, cool, poised with the confidence of his teammates." Haden was less generous. "I'm self-critical," said the handsome blond youth. "I made at least three mistakes which could be the court between the the Carmo." could have cost us the game."

the ball in the final period. Arnsparger had to try something. "When the defense beats your offense that way," be said, "you don't belong in the football game. Our defense played pretty well at times. I don't know if it was well enough to win, but it was well enough to be in the game."

The Giant defense broke down a bit in the second quarter when Mike Boryla, who had to throw only 14 passes, quarterbacked the Eagles on a 77-yard, nine-play drive. The touchdown came on a 21-yard pass to Harold Carmichael, who beat Jim Stienke on a square-out deep in the end zone. On the play, Steinke pulled a hamstring muscle reaching for the ball and the free safety will miss the Giants' next game, at Los Angeles next Sunday. "He beat me," said Stienke, "but Boryla certainly had a lot of time to throw."

Boryla, son of the former New York Knick star and coach, Vince Boryla, said Charlie Young, the tight end, was the primary receiver on the play. "but if you have enough time you can even pick out your third receiver."

'42-Yard Gain on Screen Pass Boryla did not have to throw much because the Eagles' rookie running backs, Mike Hogan and Herb Lusk, were making good yardage on the ground. Lusk also caught a screen pass late in the first half, turned it into a 42-yard gain and set up a 44-yard field goal by Muhlmann with 12 secoods remaining that gave the Eagles a 10-0 lead at intermission.

Csonka's fumble in the third quarter helped make it 13-0 and then the Giants, who did their best hitting among themselves, gave the Eagles-their final touchdown when Bobby Brooks ran into Jimmy Robinson, who was trying to catch a Spike Jnnes punt on the New York 15. Vioce Papale, a 30-year-old teacher who was playing sandlot football three years ago, forced Brooks into Robinson and recovered the fumble on the 3. Three plays later, Boryla weot over from Bob Schmlt, a Giant linebacker, was hurt when Brian Kelley, in making a tackle, drove into him. Schmit suffered a bruised left knee and may also miss the Rams' game.

It was in the third quarter that the Giants had their big moment. Morton hit Gillette on a 43-yard pass to the Eagle 35. The score was only 13-0 then and there was plenty of time left. But Gordon Bell fumbled a pitchout and recovered for a 5-yard loss. Then Ralph Hill, who played ceoter when Ron Mikolajczyk was replaced at left guard by Karl Chandler, the regular center, was called on two penalties and, after an incompletion, another 15-yard penalty set up the third and

The price difference between our Peugeor Diesel and a comparably equipped Mercedes 240 D is, perhaps, the most obvious difference between them.

Both cars are similar in size and roominess. Both can be had with many of the same comforts (although with Mercedes, you'll have to pay some $1,100 over the base price to have them).

Both cars give you power assisted four-wheel disc brakes for fast, sure stops. Both give you four-wheel independent suspension and steel-belted radials for a smooth, stable ride.

Both Mercedes and Peugeot give you the benefit of decades of experience with diesel engines. Since its first production diesel in 1928, Peugeot has built more than a million light diesel engines.

Both the Peugeot Diesel and the Mercedes Diesel give you all the operating economies of an engine that has no carburetors to be adjusted and no spark plugs, points, or condensers to be replaced. And of a fuel that averages nationally 64-74 less per gallon than unleaded gasoline.*** The significant difference is, Peugeot gives you all this for some $3,000 less (counting Mercedes' $1,100-plus extra charges for essentially the same kind of equipment that's included in Peugeot's list price). So if you're considering a Diesel, be it a sedan or wagon, consider the Peugeor first. Because a diesel car is even more economical when you can get it for thousands

Redskins 31, Seahawks 7

AT WASHINGTON—With thousands of fans wearing bandages over their noses in honor of his off the-bench victory over the Giants last week, Blly Kilmer threw three touchdown passes directed the Redskins to their second victory and the Seattle expansion team to its second straight loss. Mike Thomas, the 1975 (N.F.C.) offensive rookie of the year, caught one of the scoring passes, and ran for another touchdown. He rushed for a personal high of 143 yards on 27 carries. Rilmer completed: 17 of 25 aerials for 184 yards. Jake Scott an all-pro safety when he was a Dolphin intercepted two passes to go with one last week against the Giants. He also recovered a fumble. The deepest Seattle penetration, a fumble recovery by Ed Bradley, a linebacker, led to the Seahawk's only score, a 38-yard drive capped by Don Testerman's I-yard run in the third quarter.

Lions 24, Falcons 10

AT PONTIAC, Mich.-Joe Reed, the Detroit quarterback, who was banished to the beach earlier in the game, came in to hold for what looked like a 49yard, field-goal attempt to break a 10-10 fourth quarter tie. Instead, Reed took the suap and completed a 32-yard touchdown pass play that put the Lions ahead. Ed O'Neill, a linebacker who was an eligible receiver on the fourth-and-8 play, caught the pass all alone at the 20 and with one block chugged into the end zone, Just 51 seconds later James Hunter, a rookie safety from Grambling intercepted a Steve Bartkowski pass and sprinted 39 yards down the left sideline for another Lion

> AMERICAN CONFERENCE Colts 28, Bengals 27

AT BALTIMORE — Bert Jones con-nected on 14 of 29 passes for 301 yards end threw three touchdown passes to Roger Carr, but it still took a 2-yard plunge by Roosevelt Leaks in the fourth quarter to give the Colts their second victory without defeat.

The spectacular air duel between Jones and Ken Anderson, the Cincinnati quarterback, who interrupted in the final minute of the first half when Anderson was hit by Stan White, a linebacker. Anderson returned to action with 4:42 left in the game and was sacked twice on his first series of downs. He finished with 12 of 19 completions for 183 yards, including a 17yard scoring pass to Boh Trumpy, a tight end, in the second quarter. Chargers 23, Buccaneers 0 AT TAMPA, Fla. — Although the Tampa Bay defense held San Diego without a touchdown until the final three minutes, the expansion club's offense still has not scored a point in two National Football League games. Toni Fritsch's three field goals, for 48, 48 and 22 yards, gave the Chargers a 9-0 lead until Rickey Young broke up the tight game with a 46-yard touch-down run with 2:55 left. Then, on the first play from scrimmage following the kickoff, Tom Hayes intercepted a Parnell Dickinson pass and ran it 36 yards down the sideline to score untouched. The two times Tampa's punchless offense got into San Diego territory, field goals by Mirro Roder failed. Oflers 13, Bilis 3

AT ORCHARD PARK, N. Y.—Skip Butler kicked field goals of 54 and 28 yards, Don Hardeman added a 19-yard insurance touchdown run with four minutes left in the game, and the Houston defense stopped O. J. Sumpson and the Buffalo offense cold. Benny Ricardo, signed by the Bills as a kicker on Thursday, scored their only points on a 27-yard field goal in the second period. Hardeman's touchdown run came after Cnrley Culp of the Oilers recovered a fumble by Gary Marangi, the Bills' quarterback after he was sacked by Elvin Bethee. Houston's Ronnie Coleman and Fred Willis rushed for 170 yards, 96 for Willis and 74 for Coleman, but Simpson gained only 38 yards in 16 carries. His longest gain was 18 yards, and he was thrown for several losses.

Steelers 31, Browns 14 AT PITTSBURGH—Brian Sipe, filling in at quarterback for the injured Mike Phipos, stung the Steelers with a pair of touchdown passes in the first half, sending them into the intermission with a 14-0 deficit. However, a blocked punt by Jack Ham and two fumble recoveries in the second half belped bittehund high back. The blocked punt Pittsburgh fight bock. The blocked punt led to a 14-yard Terry Bradshaw scor-ing pass to Joho Stallworth, Greg Pru-itt's fumble set up a 47-yard field goal hy Roy Gerela, and another fumble by Mike Pruitt, a rookie, set up a 64yard drive for the go-shead touch-down on a 2-yard run by Franco Harris. The Steelers took charge and drove for a pair of fourth-quarter scores.

About New York

A Blockbuster of a Fight

By FRANCIS X. CLINES

The rabbi in the East Flatbush sec-tion of Brooklyn and the letter carrier from Richmond Hill. Queens, have panic in common. The panic is the sort that struck some of their neighbors wheo real estate brokers began circulating alarmingly virulent invita-tions to sell their houses.

"Cheose your own oeighbors" was the heading of one solicitation slipped under docrways lining the two middleclass areas. Representatives came of-fering the lirst few targeted white owners vastly inflated prices for their houses. A black couple prominently visited one area, saying they had been sent by a broker, and were followed by solicitous dealers door to coor, with a message to sell early before the mar-

Textbook bleckbusting, according to Jerry Weiss, a state specialist on the problem. "The basic message was: They're coming."

Rabbi Solomoo E. Drillman of the Gleowood Jewish Center and Thomas Pugliese, a mailman who is president of the Richmond Hill Block Association, fought hack in their precincts. Now they cautiously claim at least partial success in restabilizing their communities. But the pressure is continuous, they say. Indeed, the blockbusting problem is so pervasive that this summer Secretary of State Mario M. Cuomo took the unusual step of putting all of Brooklyn and Queeos off limits to random real estate solicitation for housing

Dealers can no looger directly ask homeowners if they want to sell. And whatever this may mean in the history of free enterprise, both the rabbi and the letter carrier say it is a good thing for the quiet burgher working hard to be left alone in relative security.

The two community leaders speak from experience, for the rabbi succeeded io obtaining an earlier, more limited han on solicitation in East Flatbush. "It worked," he says. "It stopped

And Mr. Pugliese got somewhat simi-lar results with a different technique devised hy Mr. Cuomo's office-having individual homeowners who sensed harassment obtain separate cease and desist orders. This approach is based on the same principle of privacy through which citizens can put them-selves out of bounds to mail-order pornographers. A roundabout approach for a community where a new bedge or shingling job is the preferred expres-sion of pride of ownership.

But 1.400 homeowners came forward to ask for the cease and desist orders in the 200 blocks lovolved in Mr. Pugliese's association—a sizable resist-

It is the streogth of his block association, more than any single legal device, that is the foundation of Mr. Pugliese's somewhat qualified hope that his community can survive such things as blockbusting and a newer problem, a beavy immigration of welfare tenant families. On a tour, he pointed out such new sights as sweatshop dress stores, burned out apartments and gypsies ("First time anyoue ever saw gypsies here.") like so many plagues.

After 22 years of residency in a handsomely kept row house on 104th street, e block south of the Jamaica Avenne el, Mr. Pugliese seems the embodiment of "the little man" of basic goodness who is the stuff of outer borough political rhetoric. "We're so law abiding here, it's pathetic some-times," be says, sardonically of the heavily Italian-American area.

Mr. Pugliese helped found the association three years ago when blockbust-ing first threatened, and he has seen each bit of success replaced by new problems. With the welfare influx now frightening neighbors, the association has enlarged its own housing referral services, covering both home sales and rentals, to try and rival the numerous real estate offices in the neighborhood, the one type of business that has al-most doubled in Richmood Hill in recent years.

Rabbi Drillman does oot know Mr. Pugliese or Richmood Hill, but he cites the same sort of plain virtue in his community and the same sort of pro-tective measures, such as the loformal house-listing service, spread by word of mouth among friends and kin.

He also reports the sama problem of real estate "steering" by dealers—a technique different from blockbusting in which unwritten, unstated decisions see housing customers directed to or away from different areas because of

Both meo say racial prejudice is not a factor in their bamlet defenses. The rabbi notes that an integrated bousing project across from the Jewish ceoter project across from the Jewish center product the blockbusting problem. Mr. Pugliese says he quickly admired the oew Puerto Rican family on his block when they refurbished the place to showcase proportions. The case of another Historical family. other Hispanic family, who crowded in three or four branches of relatives, was put to bousing code complaints, be says, out of healthy materialism, not

The rabbi seems more optimistic than the letter carrier. "You wonder in the long run what's going to happen," Mr. Pugliese says. "I mean, all this effort, and you hear good responsible people sometimes saying that things are so bad it would be good if Mafia leaders lived here. They'd bave legs broken to keep order. Such nonesense — even thinking of turning to murderers to keep things the way they are."

Tailored for Logistics

Up to now, the organizational struc-tures of city agencies have been divided ioto district lines tailored for their own logistical need. Thus, a map showing the city's police precincts, sanitation districts and highway districts looks today more like a plate of spagnetti than a map.

inke a plate of spagnetti than a map.

From a practical standpoint, the weiter of confusing district lines has meant that a community board that might want to coordinate the cleaoup, resurfacing and crime problems of a single street could spend months trying to get the right local superintendents from the Police, Sanitation and Highway Departments to focus on the problem.

Public Hearings to Start

Public hearings begin this morning at Police Headquarters. search for alternatives to strikes is that they despair of ever finding in-stitutional mechanisms that offer much long-range prospect for making strikes obsolete by making them unnecessary.

But they do bope that the strike toll can be drastically reduced through improved year-round communications in industries or government agencies where labor and management genuinely want to cooperate.

Perhaps the best qualified evaluator

Is David L. Cole, who headed the Federal Mediation and Conciliation
Service a full quarier-century ago and has spent much of the time since then as chairing of task forces that bave pioneered in approaches to industrial harmony in a dozen fields from steel

"Having gone through a lot of ex-periences with stars in my eyes and come a cropper in many of them, I have concluded that the important thing is oncined that the important thing is not the program or formula you work out but how much disposition you can induce in the people directly involved to resolve their differences by them-selves." said Mr. Cole. "If they start with the idea of finding a way, they will find it regardless of the instituwill find it, regardless of the instru-ment they use."

At the moment Mr. Cole is trying to instill that spirit among line executives and unionized employees in the United States Department of Labor, whose Secretary, W. J. Usery Jr., himself ranks among the country's most skilled industrial peacemakers.

His explorations thus far bave convinced Mr. Cole that vastly different relationships exist in departmental offices operating under the same union contract. In San Francisco, for example, be found the mood bad, with "a grave sense of indignation" embittering both management and representatives. By contrast, in Phila-delphia, relations impressed him as very excellent."

The worst situation, in his view, exists in headquarters at Washington where angry unionists have demonstrated in corridors and once seized an Assistant Secretary's office. All this in the face of a Federal law that illegalizes strikes, slowdowns or other coercive Theodore W. Kheel, a principal labor adviser to every New York City mayor since William O'Dwyer and member of somes of Presidential fact-finding boards in major industrial disputes, is a vehement foe of compulsory subitration or other statutory limits on the right to strike.

A recent show-cause order by a Federal Appeals Court in Denver has put direct pressure on corporate directors -especially nutside ones-to speed up implementation of Government rulings. The show-cause order, issued Sept.

7, is intended to cause directors of the Kenoecott Copper Corporation to influence the company to dispose of its Peabody Coal Company subsidiary forthwith. Kennecott was first ordered to dispose of Peabody on May 5, 1971, when the Federal Trade Commission ruled that Kennecott's ownership of the largest dumestic coal producer would lead to excessive concentration in the coal industry.

The company has since pursued legal efforts to have the nrder modified or rescinded while conducting par-allel efforts to find a suitable buyer. It has also consulted investment bankers as to the feasibility of distributing the company to Kennecott sbare-

Kennecott, which acquired Peabody in 1968, hopes, according to its annual report, that, in case of a spin-off, it will recover "a substantial portion" of the $531.9 million it has spent developing Peabody properties.

The show-cause nrder was mailed to directurs. It states that, unless they can show why they have nnt arranged for the divestiture, they will be beld in civil contempt and "fined an appropriate sum per day" until they camply with the divestiture terms.

Kennecott and its directors have until today to file a written response. A lawyer familiar with director re-aponsibility said that the order was "very serious business."

The lawyer, whn commented nn a not-for-attribution basis, said that the directors could not be reimbursed by the company for any fines the court might impose on them. He added that the fines would not ordinarily be covered by insurance. Directors' insurance, he said, usually does not cover deliberate acts.

"It sounds like the judge has hit them where they live," be added. "I can see company counsel trying to re-assure the outside directors, but this is

Implementation Likely

If the Federal Reserve does decide tomorrow to ease monetary policy, the im-plementation of such a decision will be made at the same time that it must drain very large amounts of reserves from the banking system, Alan C. Marx Toys Is Switching to Marschalk

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

The summer doldrums have passed and the pace of the advertising busi-ness is starting to quicken even before the leaves begin to turn.

The big news today is that Marx Toys, which got a new owner in April, now has a new agency as well. It will be switching its $5 million account to Marschalk, one of the Interpublic Group of Companies.

For almost a year the business has been at Ted Bates & Company, which billed $604 million last year and which also was the Marx agency from 1958 to 1974 when Marx still had its original

It is understood that Marx's new management said it was looking for an agency in the $15 million to $60 million class, where its business would be important but not too important for its people to say "no" occasionally.

Marschalk, however, billed $72 mil-

Marschalk, however, billed $72 million last year and there were even bigger agencies among the 11 that the toy company conferred with after telling Bates a few weeks ago that it was losing the business.

Marx, which bad been known as Louis Marx & Company, was owned by Quaker Oats when it was purchased by Dunbee-Combex-Marx, an international company based in London. The Marx management was changed. Robert Butler, a D-C-M executive, was named president, and Lawrence Aledort, formerly vice president-sales of Mattel, was brought in as vice president-sales and marketing. Mr. Butler and Mr. Aledort visited the five finalist agencies for their presentations.

Russell Kahn, the new ad manager, cited as other factors that led to the selection of Marschalk its top management, its creativity and its right kind of kid experience."

Marschalk is expecting to end tha year up 18 percent in billings to about $85 million. Not all of its accounts are inbound.

Not all of its accounts are inbound. Two Coca-Cola brands are beaded out. Since Tab. which bills about $S.S million, is going to McCann, another of the Interpublic Group, that really cannot be considered a loss. But Fresca, with $3 million, is going to McDonald & Little, Atlanta, the agency that did the Executable Cola comparative additional the Fresca-Pepsi-Cola comparative advertising as a special project, Especially interesting is that for first time the Atlanta-based soft drink giant has assigned a major brand to a hometown agency.

"It is a boost for the agency and for the South." said Michael G. McDonald. president of the agency and a McCann and Marschalk alumnus. But what are the national political ramifications?

Better Natured Coffee

Nestlé, which already has Nescate instant coffee and Taster's Choice freeze-dried coffee in its product line, is going into two test markets with a new brand called Sunrise. It contains chicory along with the coffee, and the claim is that it is less bitter than regular coffee. The idea is to appeal to the under-35-year-old market that is thought to be turned off by the bitterness. Under the product's name on its label it says "instant coffee mellowed with chicory" and the advantage of the product vertising theme is "Better natured. Not

Although the Leo Burnett Company bandles the Nescafé and Taster's Choice brands, Sunrise is being introduced by N. W. Ayer ABH International, a comparative newcomer to the Nestlé agen-

Case & McGrath Gets Banquet Frozen Foods

Case & McGrath has won the Banquet Frozen Foods account that had been handled by the J. Walter Thomp-son Company. Billings are in the $3 million area.

Banquet, a division of RCA that competes against Morton, a subsidiary of ITT Continental, and Swanson, a subsidiary of Campbell Sonp, sells about 100 items in the chicken, entree (on the tray or in the bag) and dessert categories.

The St. Louis-based company originally talked to 14 agencies and cut that to three finalists, each of which was paid an unspecified fee to prepare advertising for its presentation Banquet also supplied the marketing of the total coffee market, is attempting to expand its share, while at the same time trying to demote General Foods, with a 38 percent share, to Major Foods.

The last time that Case & McGrath went through a presentation like that, according to Patrick J. McGrath, its president, was five years ago when it won the Mennen Skin Bracer business. That time, too, it was from J. Walter Thompson, Chicago, Again history repeats history repeats.

Firehouse Debut

The first issue of Firehouse, befty with 53 pages of advertising, is being mailed out Wednesday. Of the 65,000 copies of the September-October issue, 55,000 will be going to paid subscribers.

Bartle Bull, the publisher, (Fireman Dennis Smith is editor) said the advertisers include Chevrolet, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco for Winston and a number of liquor companies. The magazine is aimed at firemen—regular and volunteer, their families and fire buffs

A subscription solicitation mailing of 300,000 pieces in July, Mr. Bull reported, had a response rate of 11 percent (that's high) and a mailing of 300,000 more pieces is scheduled for today.

But to say that the magazine is going like a house afire might be considered cutesy.

Supermarket Attitudes

An important burdle between the

An important burdle between the packaged goods manufacturer and the consumer is the supermarket buying committee that decides which new products will be displayed on precious shelf space. Advertising support is one of the things they are interested in.

Foote, Cone & Belding interviewed 24 grocery executives and reports, in part, that television has become the most influential medium in presentations of advertising programs to buyers.

It also notes, "Media language must be made simpler and more readily understood. Big national numbers and superlative cialms no longer impress retailers. They have become insensitive to these presentations and indicate a degree of disbelief; more importantly, they don't understand."

What's the latest on the Squeeze? All three networks, according to the Wall Street Journal, are "virtually 'sold out' of prime evening time through next year's third quarter, at prices 20% to 30% over last year."

Prime time, daytime or fringe, it's a runaway seller's market.

Clearly, things aren't getting any better.

That's why Newsweek has put together this handy TV Squeeze Kit. It's filled with facts and figures and useful information that can help you not only survive in the TV Squeeze, but actually come out ahead of the game.

Here's what it includes:

1. The TV Squeeze. How to beat it.

This comprehensive guide, based on Newsweek's new multi-media presentation, follows television from its infancy up through the current years. You'll see how the Squeeze happened. You'll learn what sensible alternatives exist.

2. The Magazine/Television Mix in a New Perspective.

This brochure discusses how print and television complement each other. Drawing on the recent W.R. Simmons study, "Media Imperatives," it shows how magazines and TV, when used in combination, can give you more GRPs for your money while decreasing your cost per thousand impressions.

3. A Guide to National Media.

This pocket guide puts television and magazine costs and figures right at your fingertips.

4. Reprints of selected Newsweek advertisements.

In these informative ads, Newsweek analyzes the actual media schedules of companies that advertise heavily in television, and shows how adding more magazines can help increase GRPs without an increase in budget.

seeking that turns most annual scholarship gatherings into meat markets of fear and trembling.

This year the job market was supposed to be concentrated for three days in a hotel at the O'Hare Airport in Chicago. But the experiment failed to prevent the usual scramble, and the University of Texas, San Antooio people, for example, received 75 job applications on the first day. Still, there was less desperation this year than in the past, reflecting the new demand for economics courses on campuses. Columbia University's business school alone was hiring six oew professors this year—and even English majors are flocking to take accounting these days, according to Vice Dean James Kuhn.

The radicals were not much in evi-The radicals were not much in evidence this year, aside from some desultory picketing of the presideot's speech and a lively cocktail party. Even one of their earlier contributions to the A. E. A., having the heads of panels listed in the program as "chairpersons," seemed to be slipping—one panel listed as chairperson "oo chairman."

The successor to the radicals' mantle this year appeared to be a groop of economists from Cambridge University in Britain. Followers of Jor Robinson.

in Britain, Followers of Jon Robinson, they described themselves as a middle road between "the system-just-needs-tinkering" approach of mainstream American neoclassical economists, and what they call the dogmatic Marx-ism of the American radicals. They are beginning a new scholarly jour-nal, The Cambridge Journal of Eco-nomics, to spread their ideas bere and in England, and cootributors will be asked to avoid the use of mathematics if possible. "That's real radicalism," one observer noted.

Mathematical analysis did dominate much of the agenda, and a bank economist, noting the array of papers on topics like "Simulatioo Modeliog of Schumpeterian Competition" "Band Spectrum Regression With Lagged Dependent Variables and Stationary Errors" commented that "every year these guys seem to be talking more and more to themselves."

A number of panels were coocerned with more practical affairs, however, such as the impact of higher energy hills oo Americao consumers. A teotative study done by Jill A. King of Mathematica Policy Research Inc. for the Federal Energy Administration estimated that the energy price increases in 1973 and 1974 hit households in the Northeast roughly two threat times Northeast roughly two to three times harder than in the rest of the country, and that the impact oo low-income households was about 10 times greater than oo high-iocome households. But most of the economists in Atlao-tic City heard only a handful of these reports, mathematical, empirical, or otherwise. When asked what he thought of the quality of the papers this year, a young Harvard scholar replied, "I don't know, I've been too husy looking for a job and seeing old friends to go to any of the meetings."

The two other new series regularly scheduled for Monday are on CBS. All's Fair, a sittom from the amazing factory of Norman Lear, can be seen at 9:30. "Executive Suite." a high-budgeted soap opera with inspirational roots in the 1950's novel by Cameron

Hawley, has the 10 to 11 slot. Each, in its very different way, falls into the rather exclusive category of "most promising of the season."

With Rod Parker, Bob Weiskops and Boh Schiller listed as the creators, writers and producers, "All's Fair" is another of those Lear-brand coococtions that rely heavily on handwing another of those Lear-brand coococtions that rely heavily on handying insults and a great deal of shouting. The opposites in this case are Richard (Richard Crenna), a conservative newspaper columnist nearing the age of 50, and Charlotte or "Charley" (Bernadette Peters), a liberal photographer—doing a layout on the columnist for The New York Times—still in the safe and New York Times-still in the safn environ of 231/4.

He is square, a gournet cook and a sexist ("Put that in your Gloria Steinem sexist ("Put that in your Gloria Steinem and lump it"). She is liberated, and a vegetarian and a neo-sexist ("Not a bad build for your age," she observes). He has a black assistant (Allen Brooks) and a literary agent/mistress (Salome Jens) roaming in and around his lavish Washington town house. She is a militarily independent wandare. This militantly independent wanderer. This being television, pre-empting the type of fluff that once flourished in film and stage comedies, they fall helplessly in Tha humor meanders from tha topical (assistant to outraged politician on telelassistant to outraged politician on telephone: "Please, Senator, a deleted expletive like that is what made you demand the resignation of President Nixon") to the labored ("well," said the assistant rushing to his car, "I' better, move my As [imperceptible

a fascist. Ha sees her as a sororityhouse sociatist. And certain lokes are touse socialist. And certain jokes are noticeably stale: He: "What do vege-tarians use for approdisiacs?" She: "Other vegetarians."

But, as usual in a Lear production, the casting is first-rate and the fingersnapping pace of the show leaves just about everything looking easy and un-demanding. All, of course' will depend oo future developments.

This evening's first hour of "Executive Suite" hatches enough characters

Few New Shows Promising, but Most Follow Formula

and incipient plots to keep "Love of Life" going for at least another 25 years. And this soap opera ambiance is precisely the point of the "new continuing drama series set against a backdrop of a giant corporation and focusing on the impersonal relationships in the siness and private lives of executives, office workers, factory hands and their

The fictional corporation is Cardway Chemicals. a young consumer-oriented maverick (Richard Cox) to the rather conservative board that already has one token black and one token feminist. But his private life is miserable enough to alienate both of his children (Wendy Phillips and Leigh McCloskey). She is running around with a radical underground group. He has just returned from a sojourn in France to find oothing changed. Mrs. Walling (Sharon Acker) is the typically efficient corporate wife, but the tensions even seem to be getting to her.

That much is merely the top layer. Against the young maverick's cootention that "You oughta be able to tell off a corporation and get heard" stands Howell Rutledge (splendidly played by Stephen Elliott), the stodgy director devoted only to profits and the conviction that consumers "don't have to like us, they have to need us." His wife (Gwyda Donhowe), of course, is the compleat gossipy bitch. But the maverick's supposed wife (Trisha Noble) has something of an unsavory past that she is trying to conceal.

And on it goes in Byzantine plotting. A radical group's bomb explodes in the computer room of the corporation. One of the company's chemicals is a suspected cancer-causing agent. The president's returning prodigal son seems to be establishing a "relation-ship" with the black roommate of his former girlfriend, who is having an ship" with the black roommate of his former girlfriend, who is having an affair with her boss. The only clear and solid head on the landscape seems to belong to the board's feminist.

"Executive Suite" is quite disconcerting, if not dizzying, at this stage.

NBC's "Van Dyke and Company" will not be seen regularly on Mondays. It is scheduled for Thursdays et 10 P.M., but because of this week's Presidential debate, the series premiere is being of-fered tonight at 10. Dick Van Dyke is joined rather briefly by Flip Wilson and Chevy Chase as guest stars for the occasion. He is assisted at greater length, and more effectively, by Andy Kaufman and the L-A. Mine Company, who will be permanent members of the cast. As seen at a critics screening, the show was generally quite good but wildly uneven. An ethnic-jokes routine involving the 'Bright Family," whose members are neither bright nor ethnic nor political, is hilarious. But a satire of "Dog Day Afternoon" falls flat.

Mr. Van Dyke is as affabln and ingratiating as ever, but he is also a touch daffier and, on occasion, a touch more bittersweet (witness his sketch with a life-size inflatable doll). Most touches expand and improve the Van Dyke per-forming persons. Tonight's best hit a "Fonzie look-alike contest," in which Andy Kaufman plays the loser to zany perfection.

Everything is oot, of course, sitcoms, soap opera or comedy/variety oo television tonight. On another level, indeed in another world, that of public tele-vision, Beverly Sills is starting in "La-Traviata." The performance begins the third season of "In Performance at Wolf Trap," featuring a series of specials recorded outdoors during the summer schedule of the country's only oational park for the performing arts. This "Traviata," which will be simulcast in stereo over radio station WQXR-FM, represents a new pro-duction designed for the San Diego Opera Company, but most of the iovolved principals are closely associated with the New York City Opera. The conductor is Julius Rudel. Alfredo is sung by the young tenor, Henry Price, and his father, the older Germont, by the haritooe Richard Fredericks. The production was conceived and directed by Tito Capohianco. And, the words Sills and New York City Opera are virtually synonymous.

The Wolf Trap performance is generally solid, presented with a minimum of distracting frills. Carl Toms cosof distracting fruits, Carl Toms cos-tumes are considerably more effective on camera than his sets, which tend to appear makeshift in closeup. If Miss-Sills' voice is slightly "dry" in the up-per registers, her acting is superb. Mr. Price was vocally weak on occasioo, hut Mr. Fredericks is outstanding throughout.

For the oext three debates, both Mr. lixoo and John F. Kennedy had in their otourages their own make-up artists and lighting specialists. Meanwhile, Mr. Nixon's aides saw to it that the studio temperatures were kept low, so that the cameras would not find the candidate perspiring as they had in the first dehate.

The lighting specialist who traveled with Mr. Nixoo in 1960 was Mr. Fiorentino. He bas since designed the televisioo lighting for Presidents and candidates of both parties.

In this year's face-to-face encounters between President Ford and Jimmy Car-ter, it will be up to Mr. Finrentino to see ter, it will be up to Mr. Finrentino to see that both have a oatural appearance oo the television screen, that deep-set eyes are oot made to seem deeper, that doubla chins are oot accentuated and that facial shadows that might suggest a sinister personality are eliminated.

999 business leaders answered these questions. Now it's your turn.

Erdos and Morgan recently surveyed 999 business leaders to find out what they thought of Business Week, Forbes and Fortune. All were upper management executives of the top thousand industrial companies—chairmen, presidents, vice presidents, treasurers, secretaries and comptrollers. What were their opinions of the three magazines. First see what your opinions are. Then compare.

	Business Week	Forbes	Fortun
1. Which one contains the best writing?				-
2. Which one is the most authoritative?
3. Which one best keeps its readers up-to-date on business events?				and it
4. Which one carries the most interesting advertising?				-
5. If a major story were to be done about your company, in which one would you most like it to appear?			77900
6. Which one is easiest to read?
7. Which one has the most persuasive advertising?
8. Which one is least accurate?

Look at the box and compare your answers with the answers the 999 business leaders gave.

Chances are they're pretty close. Because most people in business and advertising—when they stop to think about it—just naturally assume Fortune is a notch above the others.

Most authoritative? Best writing? Fortune, of course. Where would you most prefer to see a major story on your company appear? Where else?

The surprises.

The surprises came when these executives were asked about advertising.

Why did 59% of them think Fortune carried the most interesting advertising, compared with only 20% for Business Week and 10% for Forbes?

Why did 45% of them believe Fortune had the most persuasive advertising, against 22% for Business Week and 12% for Forbes?

Why these overwhelming differences in the way they perceive advertising when very often the same advertising runs in all three magazines? Clearly, the decision makers think Fortune is different. It's not just another business magazine. It's up there by itself.

They take Fortune more seriously. They have respect for its authority...its accuracy, its depth, its importance.

They pay more attention to whatever is in Fortune... the stories and the advertising.

That's the unique Fortune environment at work.

Exposure vs. communicat

For an advertiser, it's the difference between exposure and communication. Sure, you can space in another magazine and your ad will.

The Actual Results

1. Best writing...

3. Up-to-date....

5. A major story...

6. Easiest to read...

8. Least accurate...

2. Most authoritative...

4. Most interesting ads ...
